Fine, Fit and Fabulous

Do you want to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous? Bronx Health REACH is sponsoring an exciting twelve-week program which combines nutrition and fitness in a spiritual context. Fine, Fit and Fabulous uses scripture and spiritual group support to help congregants adopt healthier eating and exercise habits. As believers, we know that we are comprised of body, soul and spirit. For too long, many of us have been ignoring one key component of our being – our physical selves. Through Fine, Fit and Fabulous, you will learn to take care of your physical bodies through spiritual guidance, nutrition education and gospel aerobics.

The Fine, Fit and Fabulous program is designed around three key points, which will help you grow in the areas of spiritual and physical health:

1. Purpose driven reasons for caring for your body; what is your motive for wanting to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous?

2. Adopting a healthier lifestyle requires discipline, moderation and self-control, character traits which are supported throughout the scriptures.

3. Setting goals and staying focused are the keys to improving health. It is important to honor God by taking care of your body – the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit.

Congregants who participate in Fine, Fit and Fabulous meet at their church for twelve weeks, which includes group discussion sessions and exercise sessions taught by a certified fitness instructor. Each person is assigned a buddy or group for support in completing exercise and nutrition goals. Some of the weekly discussion topics include:

The Food, God and Health Connection
Solomon said, “Where there is no guidance, the people fall” (Proverbs 11:14)

Self-Indulgence and Gluttony are Sins – Are you sinning?
“Jeshurun grew fat and kicked: filed with food, he became heavy and sleek. He abandoned the God who made him and rejected the Rock his Savior.” (Deut 32:15)

Self-Discipline, Moderation, and Self-Control – Is that your stomach growling or your soul?
“Everyone who competes in the games goes into strict training. They do it to get a crown that Will not last; but we do it to get a crown that will last forever.” (1 Corinthians 9:25)

Using God’s Strength to Live a Healthier Life – Trade in “fat and happy” for “fit and healthy”!
“I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me.” (Philippians 4:13)

Program Outline

The Fine, Fit and Fabulous program began at Believer’s Christian Fellowship under the leadership of the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Suzan D. Johnson Cook, and the guidance of Loyce Godfrey. The Fine, Fit and Fabulous program grew out of Rev. Cook’s desire for healthier congregants. After much planning and research, Loyce and some of her fellow congregants, developed a ministry centered on health and fitness. The program is twelve weeks long with a different spirituality and nutrition/health theme each session and a fitness component each week.

PARTICIPANT’S GUIDE

Fine, Fit and Fabulous is a self-directed fitness and spiritual program. Success in the program relies upon your desire to improve your physical and spiritual body. As a participant, you will be asked to make several evaluations about yourself, including your readiness, interests, and goals relating to exercise and nutrition. These assessments will help you make your own individualized program.

The most important aspects of this program are:

1. Buddy and/or group participation for increased discipline, motivation, and inspiration.
2. Weekly meetings with prayer and discussion about spirituality, fitness and nutrition.

Participants will meet for structured 2 ½ hour sessions, every week for twelve weeks. One hour is devoted to group discussion, one hour to exercise/fitness instruction and ½ hour to addressing participants’ goals, weekly food and fitness logs, weigh-ins, etc. Each session will have either a spiritual or nutrition theme—which guides discussion and activities. The focus of the last session is open to allow for flexibility in the program. Together, participants and the program leader should decide how to structure the final session. Previous groups have decided to celebrate their successes in the final week with a recognition ceremony or graduation event. Others used the last week as a “make-up” session for those participants who missed a discussion or for those who wanted to re-visit a particular topic. Each week you will have time to talk about successes and struggles in working toward your nutrition and fitness goals as well. The weekly meetings are a way for everyone in your congregation to get together and learn from each other in an open and supportive environment.

Another key piece of the program is the development of an action plan and a contract to be signed by you and your buddy or group. The action plan and contract will allow you to use evaluations about yourself to make an individualized plan. The format of the action plan has been designed to support your work with a buddy or group. Talking with others can help you better understand different perspectives and the successes that others have had. The guide to creating an action plan includes discussion questions that will help you and your buddy or group think about where you are and where you want to be.

Working with your group or buddy will provide you with the support that you need. Make sure to exchange contact information and sign the Fine, Fit and Fabulous contract. Successful individuals in this program have contact with each other every day. Whether it’s a quick email or a short phone call, make sure that your buddy or group remains motivated. In exchange, they will do the same for you! Also, try to meet up as often as you can for group activities; go for a walk in the park, swim at the community pool, or try that new exercise tape that you bought. Be sure to exchange thoughtful tips, hints, and recipes. If you are technologically savvy, start an email group and email thoughtful scriptures, articles, and exercise routines.

Because the program is about your interests, feel free to participate in the activities that you think will help you succeed. Make sure that you and your group/buddy have similar interests. Focus on activities that you and your buddy enjoy. Having someone to rely on will help you when you need inspiration or motivation. You will be more likely to reach your goals when you have the support that you need.

Having a buddy will also help you be more accountable to your goals. By holding each other accountable to your goals, everyone will be more likely to succeed. When starting off, it may help to have one or at most two goals. Make sure that these goals are realistic and within your reach. If you have a big goal to reach, such as running a marathon, perhaps you can start off with smaller goals. For example, you may want to think about first walking 20 blocks, then a mile and before you know it, you’ll be running the marathon! Most of all, remember that discipline is required for your spiritual and physical growth.
Together, the Program Leader, Fitness Instructor, Evaluation Coordinator, you and your buddy, will use several tools to track progress toward reaching your goals.

1. Personal Health, Fitness and Medical History Questionnaire
   At the beginning of the program you will be asked to complete a questionnaire designed to capture general health status information. This provides background and baseline information for evaluation of the program and aids the instructors in helping you set appropriate nutrition and fitness goals.

2. Nutrition Pre/Post Tests
   You will be asked to complete a nutrition pre-test at the beginning of the program, as well as shorter quizzes at the end of each nutrition-related session. This way we can track knowledge gain and progress toward your goals over the twelve week period.

3. Action Plan
   The first step in the 12-week program is to create an action plan. The action plan includes goals that are developed with your buddy or group and a contract signed by each of you. Be sure to include goals for being spiritually, nutritionally and physically fit. When writing down your goals, think about reasonable commitments that are within your reach.

   A guide for developing your action plan is included in this packet. The guide offers discussion points and activities that you can complete with your buddy/group to help you think about what kind of fitness and nutrition goals you want to reach.

4. Goal Planning Worksheet
   Use this worksheet to think more about the short and long-term spiritual, nutrition and fitness goals you include in your action plan, the steps you will take to achieve these goals, how you will overcome challenges you might encounter, and the way you and your buddy/group will celebrate once you have successfully completed the program! You should include specific steps that you will take to accomplish your goals. For example, “I will read selected passages from the Bible, consume at least one serving of vegetables at dinner, and walk at least 30 minutes every day.”

5. Weigh-ins
   Some Fine, Fit and Fabulous participants may decide to pursue a weight loss goal, others may not. All participants will be weighed at orientation and approximately every three weeks after that until the end of the program so that weight changes can be accurately recorded and tracked. Even if you are not considering a weight loss goal, we ask that everyone participate in regular weigh-ins. Your weight and all personal information will remain confidential.

6. Weekly Exercise Logs
   Exercise logs will help you track how much time you spent on your fitness goals each week. You are encouraged to use the extra space provided for comments to record daily notes on what you liked, didn’t like or found challenging about pursuing your goals, which you can share with the group at each weekly meeting.

7. Weekly Food Diaries
   Participants are encouraged to record their daily food and beverage intake on the food logs provided at the end of each section in Participant’s Guide. By writing down all of the food and beverages you consume daily, you will better understand your eating habits and discover whether you are eating the recommended number of servings from each food group. You can share this diary with your buddy or group leader to get tips for how to improve your eating habits. Be sure to bring completed food diaries to each Fine, Fit & Fabulous session.
Guide to Creating an Action Plan

To start the Fine, Fit and Fabulous program, you need to come up with a plan. All of the planning that you need to accomplish can be achieved by following this guide. This health and fitness program revolves around spiritual growth, healthy eating and physical exercise. The action plan will walk you through developing the spiritual, nutrition and fitness goals that will help you better your health. You should work with your buddy or group to design an individualized action plan using the template included in this packet. Once you have designed your action plan, you and your buddy or group will each sign the contract on the bottom of the second page.

The discussion questions and activities below will help guide you through the process of developing your action plan. It will be helpful to keep a record of your discussions, so that you can refer to it later. This section covers three areas:

1. Getting ready
   Think about the importance of discipline and its role in achieving your fitness goals.

2. Commitment
   Your buddy or group is a critical part of this program. How can she/they help you achieve your fitness goals? How can you help her/them do the same?

3. Goal-setting
   Everyone will set different goals. Don’t compare yourself to others and don’t worry if your buddy or neighbor has a “bigger” goal than you. Think of a goal that is reasonable for you and your lifestyle and work toward it. You can always set another goal down the road.

Now let’s get going!

Getting Ready

What is discipline? Think about your favorite biblical characters, heroes, sports stars, or successful business people. Discipline is at the base of doing anything well. In order to achieve any goal, you must train for it. The hardest part of training is getting the motivation and desire for self-improvement. Discipline is equally important for spiritual growth as well as physical growth.

Discussion Questions

- What does it mean to be disciplined?
- Does it mean being physically active all the time or just some of the time?
- What is your definition of “disciplined”?
- Consider the pain of discipline versus the pain of regret. How are they different?
- How does discipline contribute to physical and spiritual health?
- What can you do to increase your discipline?
- How does being disciplined for your physical health improve your spiritual health?
Commitment
The action plan is based upon participants working together. Cooperation between participants is vital for the success of the entire Fine, Fit and Fabulous program. Together with a buddy or a group, you can design your own plan. Your fellow participants are your greatest tool because they understand the challenge in completing this program; after all, they are going through it too. It is important for you to be sympathetic to your friends as they move along with this program. Sending thoughtful emails or calling them to remind them about their exercise schedule or skipping the candy isle at the grocery store can be helpful and encouraging.

Discussion Questions
- How will your buddy or group help you reach your goals?
- What are the benefits to working with a group rather than on your own?
- How will your group encourage each other along the way?
- What type of physical and spiritual activities do you all like to do?
- How often will you meet to engage in these activities?

Goal-Setting
By setting reasonable goals that you can reach, you will be more likely to achieve them. If you are just starting your routine and have no experience with exercising, you may want to start off slow. By doing a little bit at a time you will be less likely to get discouraged. Add a few more exercises, routines, or moves every week if you are into aerobics, strength training, or exercise routines. If you like to walk, jog, swim, or run, add a little more distance every week. Keep challenging yourself with new goals. When you achieve each goal, you will be more likely to remain motivated and willing to participate.

Discussion Questions
- What are your feelings toward your own physical and spiritual well-being?
- How does your action plan tie into these feelings?
- What would you like to accomplish over the next twelve weeks? How about six months after that? And a year after that?

Activities
- Keep track of your goals by writing them down. This way you can keep a record of your goals and measure your successes.
- Be specific about your goals. Is your goal to eat more vegetables? Or is to jog further? Or to lift more weights?
- Keep a record of your food intake and any physical activities by completing your food diary and exercise log EVERYDAY!! This will help you to see the progress that you have made.

A PRAYER FOR POWER

Dear God,

Today we claim our promise that You are able to free us from anything inside or outside ourselves that may be holding us captive.

We know that You are stronger than any habit, dependency, or destructive pull in our lives.

When our enemies’

temptations and old, bothersome habits of all kinds attack, You are ready to save us if only we will call out for help.

Save us today, we pray.

Help us to do our part to stand firm and not slide back into slavery.

We don’t want to live there anymore.

Awesome God, because You have called us to freedom,

We are free indeed!

Amen

THE FOOD, GOD AND HEALTH CONNECTION
“Solomon said, “Where there is no guidance, the people fail”’ (Proverb 11:14)

Subject
Participants will learn about how lifestyle choices related to diet and exercise affect a person’s potential to develop life-threatening diseases like diabetes, heart disease and cancer. Participants will engage in discussion around how to prevent obesity by changing eating habits.

Goals
The goal of this week’s lesson is to educate participants about how their food choices can affect long-term health.

Objectives
- Participants will understand the link between food and health
- Participants will be able to name the four leading causes of death in which diet plays a part
- Participants will be able to name three diseases that can result from obesity

Teaching Method
The information will be presented to patients through an open discussion format

Training Aids
Participants will receive written educational material as determined by the leader.

Homework for Week 2:
- Distribute “Why is the Church So Fat?” by Kara Davis, MD to each participant. Ask them to read the article before the next session in preparation for Week 2 group activity.
- Encourage participants to complete food and exercise logs.

Lesson Outline
1) What is your greatest health concern?

2) What do you think is the leading cause of death in American women?
   a) Do you think it is diet-related?
      i) Answer = heart disease

3) What are your thoughts on lifestyle being a major factor in our health and longevity?

4) What do you think are the four leading causes of death in which diet plays a part?
   a) Heart disease
   b) Cancer
   c) Stroke
   d) Diabetes
5) According to recent statistics, our eating habits – the foods we eat and drink, and those we avoid – play a major role in preventing four of the 10 leading causes of death in the United States (heart disease, cancer, stroke and diabetes).
   a) Is this information reliable?

6) One in four adults have high blood pressure, a leading contributor to stroke, heart attack and kidney failure
   a) The risk factors are obesity and lack of exercise

7) If obesity were merely a matter of appearance, it would be less of a concern. But obesity is a health problem.

8) Obesity is associated with an increased risk of many diseases, including:
   a) Diabetes
   b) Coronary artery disease
   c) High blood pressure
   d) Breast, colon and gallbladder cancer in women, colon and prostate cancer in men
   e) Stroke
   f) Degenerative arthritis
   g) Respiratory problems
   h) Sleep disturbance
   i) Gall bladder disease

9) Do you believe you can lose weight by eating fewer calories or by increasing exercise?

10) How many of you are exercising? How often?

11) What does God have to do with this?

12) One day you will stand before God and he will do an audit of your life, a final exam before you enter eternity. From the Bible, we can surmise that God will ask us two crucial questions.
   a) “What did you do with my son, Jesus Christ?”
   b) “What did you do with what I gave you?”
      i) What did you do with your life, all the gifts, talents, opportunities, energy, relationships and resources God gave you?
      ii) Did you spend them on yourself, or did you use them for the purposes God made you for?

Group Activity

Leader: Ask different participants to read the descriptions of Ms. Coronary Heart Disease, Ms. Diabetes Mellitus, Ms. Cancer and God:

Three people stand before God for their final exam:

1) Ms. Coronary Heart Disease died after having a heart attack. For years her doctor had talked to her about her high cholesterol and blood pressure levels and the importance of changing her eating habits. Each year she promised herself she would buy healthier foods and prepare them using low-fat cooking methods. However, her family loved her cooking as is and she didn’t want to disappoint them.

2) Ms. Diabetes Mellitus (type 2) died from complications associated with years of uncontrolled blood sugar levels. She knew she needed to exercise more. Her doctor told her exercise would help her reach and maintain a healthy weight as well as keep her blood sugar levels closer to normal. Ms. Diabetes was always too tired from long days at work and looking after her grandchildren to do the things that would help keep her healthy.

3) Ms. Cancer spent her whole life avoiding fresh fruits, vegetables and other foods packed with vitamins, minerals and antioxidants. She loved to indulge in big meals of fast food, fatty meats and creamy sauces. Sometimes when she didn’t feel too hungry, she would skip the meal and go right to dessert. Ms. Cancer always chose ready-to-eat/processed foods because they were quick and easy to prepare. She died after a long, tough battle with breast cancer.

God says to Ms. Coronary Heart Disease, Ms. Diabetes Mellitus and Ms. Cancer: “I gave you resources, reliable and readily available guidance. Information on health was more accessible than at any time in history. I blessed you to have the best in medical research. I gave you television, newspapers, magazines and the Internet, which provided a never-ending flow of data on health-related topics. Information was everywhere. Why didn’t you use it for the purposes I made you for?”

Leader: Ask participants to take turns responding to God as Ms. Coronary Heart Disease, Ms. Diabetes Mellitus and Ms. Cancer. Then, ask a participant to read God’s response (below).

God’s response to them: “Though you had the knowledge about how to improve your health, you were destroyed because you failed to act on the knowledge you had. You suffered and died from diet-related diseases because you avoided the crucial steps of accepting responsibility and accountability for taking care of your temple, my precious gift to you.”

Homework for Week 2:

Please read the article “Why is the Church So Fat?” by Kara Davis, MD to prepare for a discussion on making lifestyle changes.
Why Is the Church So Fat?
By Kara Davis, M.D.

Have you noticed that we don't fit in the pews anymore? God's people are packing on the pounds, but His Word is clear about how we can reclaim our health.

Look around the next time you're in a shopping mall--or at church--and you'll notice right away that excessive body weight has become an epidemic in the United States. Obesity and overeating cause or contribute to more than a dozen illnesses, including heart disease, type 2 diabetes and arthritis.

But obesity brings with it more than just sickness. It also brings death.

Estimates indicate more than 400,000 deaths each year are attributable to improper diet and inadequate exercise. If current trends continue, by next year this number will exceed 500,000, making obesity and being overweight the leading causes of preventable death--surpassing tobacco use.

Obesity is a complex problem influenced by a number of factors ranging from the obvious (our sedentary lifestyles and lack of knowledge about food types and food preparation) to the complicated (depression, anxiety and stress). Genetics plays a role, but it is not responsible for this recent rapid increase because our genes haven't changed much in only one or two generations.

And there's no sign that this epidemic is coming under control. Despite an ever-increasing awareness of the benefits of maintaining a healthy weight, between 1990 and 2000 the percentage of adults who were either overweight or obese rose from 60 percent to 64 percent.

Although some groups are affected more than others (African-American women, for instance, have more obesity than women of other races), the disease and death attributable to excess body weight affects every segment of society irrespective of race, age, socioeconomic status--or religion.

Born-again Christians have not been spared this epidemic. In fact we actually lead the pack!

According to a study by Kenneth Ferraro of Purdue University, obesity is most prevalent in states with the strongest religious affiliation. Of the people he surveyed, Southern Baptists had the highest average body weight and Jews and non-Christians had the lowest.

Unlike other medical conditions that may strike without reason, obesity and being overweight are greatly affected by our own choices of behavior and lifestyle. How is it, then, that Christians are afflicted more than other groups?

It seems the opposite should be true--that our willful submission to the Holy Spirit, who empowers us to make the right decisions, ought to spare us from a condition so heavily influenced by personal choice. But this is not the case. And as a result, when it comes to health and preventable illness, rather than standing out as "a peculiar people" (1 Pet. 2:9, KJV), we look much like the world.

It seems the local church has nurtured our souls but neglected our bodies. Of course I believe that where we spend eternity is infinitely more important than the quality of our health during the few short years we'll spend on Earth.
But as believers, we cannot ignore the reality that we are complete entities who comprise body, soul and spirit. As such, we cannot choose to ignore one key component of our being--our physical lives--and expect to walk in total victory.

I have been blessed to care for hundreds of overweight and obese Christian patients and have spent more than a decade examining this problem from both a medical and a biblical perspective. During this time, I've made a few observations about why the church is struggling in this area.

Though my assessment here is not all-inclusive, these four reasons--Recognition, Separation, Temptation and Subjection--give insight into why the church is entrenched in this health crisis.

Recognition

No matter what the situation, we are unlikely to address a problem without first recognizing it. When it comes to obesity in the church, we have failed to acknowledge the problem and, more important, we've ignored the spiritual issues relating to it.

In other words: We're fat but we won't admit it!

One reason we haven't acknowledged the problem is desensitization. We are less likely to respond to the familiar, and there is reassurance in numbers. And because the majority of the Christian community--both laity and leadership--is either overweight or obese, it's easy to see how this problem goes unrecognized.

But even as the country is now heeding a wake-up call to become more aggressive at addressing the health consequences of obesity, so now is the time for Christians to examine how this crisis affects us.

When we fail to recognize the problem, we suffer on many fronts. First, our testimony is weakened. We gain great opportunities for witnessing when friends and family see us trust in the Lord to bring our weight under control.

But when we continue to walk in defeat, gaining weight instead of losing it, declining in health instead of improving, leaving each doctor's visit with more prescriptions than when we arrived, our witness to the power of the Holy Spirit is marred. God forbid the unsaved say of us, "If God can't help her close the refrigerator, how powerful can He be?"

Another consequence of not recognizing this problem is we inadvertently contribute to skyrocketing health-care costs. I believe God's people should be a blessing to their families, employers, communities and even their nation. But as long as the church fails to recognize the full spectrum of this health crisis, we risk becoming financial liabilities to society.

Obese and overweight people require the spending of far more health-care dollars than their normal-weight counterparts, costing more than $75 billion annually for weight-related illnesses. In addition, weight-related medical conditions contribute to decreased productivity and increased absenteeism in the workplace.

Jesus was a blessing to society. As His followers, we ought to be mindful of the many ways we may influence our surroundings, and strive to be a blessing.

Finally, a failure to recognize the problem keeps some in a state of addiction, bondage and idolatry. The church must recognize that addiction extends beyond tobacco, alcohol, drug use and gambling and that many obese and overweight Christians are, in fact, addicted to food.
Food can indeed become an idol, dictating our behavior and making us say yes when the Holy Spirit would have us say no. For the food addict, the attraction to food, the loss of control over food and the mental preoccupation with food can be just as intense as the drug addict's desire for his or her substance of choice.

Unfortunately, a food addiction often goes unrecognized. Overeating does not alter our mental faculties, it is not illegal, and in this day and age of super-sized french fries, stuffed-crust pizzas and all-you-can-eat food bars it has become the socially acceptable norm.

But whenever we seek the provision of God first, we run the risk of idolatry. Remember the story of the Hebrew slaves and their miraculous escape from Egyptian bondage? It was not long before they found themselves craving the foods of Egypt--the very foods that should have reminded them of centuries spent in slavery (see Num. 11:4-6). Addiction clouds reality, preventing us from recognizing the condition of bondage. Instead of cutting calories and restricting or eliminating those foods that contribute to poor health, a food addict craves them, never associating them with bondage to illness, medications and hospitalizations.

The solution to any addiction is deliverance. But the first step in deliverance is recognition.

Separation

Jesus said of His followers, "'They are not of the world, just as I am not of the world'" (John 17:16, NKJV). Our faith in Christ is manifested in a sanctified lifestyle--one that is set apart and distinct from the world.

The sad truth, however, is that we are falling short of this call. In many ways we look exactly like the world, especially in the areas of indulgence and excess.

The world system encourages us to yield to the carnal nature through satisfying our flesh and yielding to our cravings. This is evident in such advertising slogans as "Have It Your Way," "Can't Stop Eating 'Em" and "Obey Your Thirst."

Even though excess and indulgence are the norm for the world's system, the Word of God admonishes us to control our appetites. We are encouraged to crucify these tendencies and choose a lifestyle marked by sobriety and moderation. Many Christians struggle with obesity for no reason other than an unwillingness to reject the worldly tendency toward self-indulgence and excess.

How do you know if this is your problem? Examine your behavior.

Is the first serving never quite enough? Are you compelled to eat in response to the sight, smell or taste of food in the absence of real hunger? Are you reluctant to set dietary restrictions--even at the advice of a nurse or physician--if it means sacrificing enjoyment?

I have treated many born-again patients with weight-related illnesses who call on the Lord as "Jehovah Rapha" (The Lord My Healer) in their prayers. This is a good thing. God is our healer and He responds to the prayers of His children.

But we must understand the entire passage from Exodus 15:26. When God identified Himself as Jehovah Rapha and assured us of protection from disease, it was under the conditions that His children separate themselves from worldliness.
The promise made at Marah was a conditional agreement, with protection from disease contingent upon steadfast obedience to God. My point is this: If we expect God to respond to our infirmities as Jehovah Rapha, the least we should do is keep our part of the agreement.

Temptation

The third reason the church is experiencing an increase in obesity and weight-related illnesses is that we are not serious enough about temptation. Satan has relied on the power of temptation since the fall of mankind. We should never make light of the devil's schemes when it comes to temptation, but remember he is not the only source.

James 1:14 says, "But each one is tempted when he is drawn away by his own desires and enticed." So we must be vigilant at revealing the devil's destructive plans and just as determined to protect ourselves against our own lusts.

The blood of Jesus covers our sins, but too often we get cozy in this grace, to the extent that caving into temptation doesn't really grieve us. David's description of a good man--"though he stumble, he will not fall, for the Lord upholds him with his hand" (Ps. 37:24, NIV)--seems to have made us dangerously comfortable with stumbling.

But God's grace should not be used as a security net. Sin is destructive and usually bears consequences, even for the grace-covered believer. Many Christians stand in total forgiveness today for the years they spent yielding to tempting foods, but they nevertheless pay the consequences in the form of poor health or even an early grave.

We must take 1 Corinthians 10:13 to heart: "God is faithful, who will not allow you to be tempted beyond what you are able" (NKJV). This wonderful promise serves as our assurance that no matter how intense the temptation, if we are experiencing it, we must be equipped to endure, otherwise God would not allow it to take place.

Our problem is we succumb to temptation without much of a struggle, sometimes with no struggle at all. Don't allow the knowledge of God's grace to persuade you to take temptation lightly. You won't know total victory until you get serious about resisting!

Subjection

Simply put, subjecting the flesh means I am in charge--not my body. Even though my flesh pleads with me to respond to the carnal, undisciplined nature, it is my regenerated mind that makes the decisions and determines how my flesh will behave. An unwillingness to subject the flesh contributes to obesity in two ways: gluttony and laziness.

I've already alluded to the issue of gluttony in terms of self-indulgence and excess. In the Catholic tradition, gluttony is one of the seven deadly sins. In the Protestant tradition, it's virtually ignored.

The book of Proverbs speaks of the glutton right alongside the heavy drinker (see Prov. 23:21). Though the church is quick to identify a drunk (and quick to condemn him), the glutton goes largely unnoticed. In many congregations, for instance, "fellowship" meals have become little more than food orgies.

Subjecting the flesh also requires exercising. Advances in technology have made our lives more sedentary. We drive instead of walk, and we work seated at desks instead of toiling in fields. Even our entertainment choices--movies and video games--are passive.
Our bodies, however, were designed by God for movement. Regular exercise is vitally important for weight control and good health. So what keeps us from exercising? Many times, it's just a refusal to subject the flesh because of laziness.

Through the years, my patients and the participants in my weight-loss classes have given me a litany of excuses for why they can't exercise. Some are valid, but most are not. The majority of them reflect an underlying need to discipline the flesh.

One common excuse I hear is there is not enough time. But the issue is not really time; it's prioritizing time, especially considering the fact that most adults watch several hours of television each day. If there is time to sit in front of a television, then there is time to exercise.

Yet many of those who complain about a lack of time actually own exercise equipment with a television in full view. The "lack of time" excuse also won't explain why we're willing to wait on an elevator rather than climb the stairs or why we drive in circles to search for a parking space just to avoid walking a few yards.

In several passages of Scripture, Paul likens the Christian walk to that of an athlete in training. In 1 Corinthians 9:27 he describes his method of subduing the flesh: "I discipline my body and bring it into subjection." Like it or not, we will never gain control of our weight without bringing our flesh under subjection.

The apostle John told his dear friend Gaius, "I pray that you may enjoy good health and that all may go well with you, even as your soul is getting along well" (3 John 2, NIV). Good health is indeed a blessing to enjoy.

As children of God, we are entitled to receive His blessings, but we have hindered the flow because of poor choices when it comes to our lifestyles. Commit today to make a change. Let the Holy Spirit take full control of your entire life--body, soul and spirit--and begin walking in the blessing of better health.

She's the Expert on Fat

Dr. Kara Davis knows there's a link between emotional problems and weight gain. Her dieting advice is based on spiritual truths--not fads.

As a student of internal medicine, Kara Davis was trained to fight disease. But it wasn't until she accepted Jesus as her Savior that she began to make a spiritual difference in the lives of others.

A graduate of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, Davis was led to the Lord by her husband during her final year of medical school in 1987.

"After accepting Jesus, I had the peace of the Lord in my heart, which enabled me to respond in a godly manner to challenging situations at work," says Davis, who considers her spiritual insights and Christian attitude a witness to other physicians.

Davis deems it necessary to take a bold stand for Jesus, especially in a profession where so many are skeptical of God, faith and anything supernatural. Though she says there are "a lot of saved physicians," the Chicago native admits it can be a challenge witnessing to people with a scientific background.

"We doctors can give you a scientific explanation for how clouds produce rain, but when I became a believer, I couldn't give an explanation for what happened to my heart," she says.
Today, Davis shares the pastorate with her husband, Bishop Lance Davis, at New Zion Christian Fellowship in the Chicago suburb of Dolton. Former members of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, the Spirit-filled couple started an independent ministry last year with 250 people. The fledgling congregation has more than doubled in size since it opened some eight months ago.

As a mother of four children--Grace, 12; Andrew, 8; Lance, 5; and Natalie, 4--Davis also works in private practice in Hammond, Indiana, not far from her hometown. Patients come to her with a variety of illnesses, many stemming from emotional problems that often have led to overeating.

Davis is concerned about America's rising rate of obesity, which she considers alarming. Her concern prompted her to focus her practice on helping patients improve their health by confronting the emotional struggles that are linked to poor eating habits.

"According to research, more people are dying from obesity than ever before," Davis told Charisma. "It's reaching epidemic proportions," she adds, noting that thousands of Christians are included in the figures.

The author of Spiritual Secrets to Weight Loss (Charisma House), Davis helps readers adopt a new attitude and lifestyle toward food--one with Christ at the center. Chapters such as "Depression: The Joy Snatcher"; "Hope in God"; "The Fruit of the Spirit Is Love"; and "Loving Ourselves," prompt readers to dig deep for answers.

Danita Brent, a Florida woman who has lost more than 77 pounds in two years after a rigorous lifestyle change, considers Davis' message a tailor-made fit for believers.

"So many of us have found secular solutions to diet concerns to be temporary and even damaging," Brent says. "They fail to address the spiritual and emotional roots that surround our inordinate attachments to food. Kara Davis has the insight, the training and the anointing to tackle one of the most critical issues facing women today--weight control."

During the time Davis worked as assistant professor of clinical and internal medicine at her alma mater, she noticed that an unusually high number of African-American women were obese. That finding prompted her to take an aggressive step toward educating women of color about emotions and lifestyles that trigger overeating.

"Inadequate exercise and improper nutrition are major causes of premature death and disease," Davis told Charisma. She says there are examples in Scripture in which God rebuked Israel for turning to idolatry and self-indulgence. The root issues grieve the Holy Spirit, she says.

For Brent, whose life has been transformed by Davis' love for people struggling with obesity, Davis is a godsend.

"Kara Davis is compassionate, extremely knowledgeable and well-equipped to give us the spiritual tools we need for lasting change," she says.

"She promises no quick and easy answers, just sound medical advice and spiritual wisdom you can really live with."

Kara Davis, M.D., is an assistant professor of clinical medicine and an internist at the University of Illinois. She is also the author of Spiritual Secrets to Weight Loss, published by Charisma House.

Fine Fit and Fabulous
Week 2 Lesson Plan

THE BASICS OF HEALTHY EATING
MAKING LIFESTYLE CHANGES

Subject:
The nutrition portion of this class will focus on how healthy eating, in conjunction with an active lifestyle, contributes to overall health. The lesson will touch on general guidelines and basic nutrition information and will serve as a spring board for subsequent lessons.

After discussing the health benefits of choosing a healthy diet and regular physical activity, participants will begin a conversation on what it takes to successfully make lifestyle changes.

Goals:
The goal of the nutrition/health lesson is to encourage participants to incorporate healthy eating and physical activity into their lives as an integral part of overall health and well being.

Objectives:
- Participants will be able to identify one way that healthy eating contributes to overall health and well being.
- Participants will be able to identify one way that being physically active contributes to overall health and well being.

Teaching Method:
The information will be presented to participants through an open discussion format.

Training Aids:
Participants will receive written educational materials as determined by the leader. All participants should already have a copy of “Why is the Church So Fat?”

Evaluation:
- Complete week 2 nutrition post test

Homework for Week 3:
- Ask participants to bring an item from home that represents something they are willing to give up as a part of their commitment to making healthy lifestyle changes.
- Encourage participants to complete their food and exercise logs.
Lesson Outline:
I. Healthy eating and regular physical activity can reduce the risk of chronic disease in adulthood.

II. Benefits of healthy food habits ▪ Helps to reduce three of the major risk factors for heart attack
     i. Reduces high blood cholesterol
     ii. Reduces high blood pressure
     iii. Improves management of excess body weight ▪ Helps to reduce your risk of stroke, because heart disease and high blood pressure are major risk factors for stroke.
   ▪ Helps to reduce your risk of developing other diseases, such as diabetes.

III. General suggestions for healthy eating ▪ Eat a variety of fruits and vegetables every day.
     o Aim for 5-9 servings per day
     o Try to choose different colors of fruits and vegetables to maximize your intake of vitamins and minerals ▪ Eat a variety of whole grain products
     o Always look for “whole grain” or “whole wheat” in the ingredient list to ensure that you receive the nutritional benefits of a whole grain.
     o Products that say “wheat flour” as opposed to “whole wheat flour” are not made up of whole grains. These products do not have as many nutritional benefits.
   ▪ Choose fat-free and low-fat milk and dairy products
     o Look for 1% or skim milk, low fat or fat free yogurt and low fat cheese o Most other milk/dairy products are also available in low fat or fat free varieties, including sour cream, cream cheese, buttermilk, cottage cheese, coffee creamers, ice cream – as well as the items listed above.
     o If dairy products bother your stomach, choose “lactose free” or “lactose reduced” products to avoid discomfort. These products are also available in low fat and fat free varieties.
   ▪ Limit solid fats like butter, stick margarine, shortening, and lard as well as foods that contain these. Instead, choose canola oil and olive oil, or try cooking with fat free cooking spray.

IV. Health benefits of daily physical activity ▪ Helps to prevent heart disease and stroke by:
     o Strengthening your heart muscle
     o Lowering your blood pressure
     o Raising your good cholesterol (HDL) levels ○ Lowering you bad cholesterol (LDL) levels ○ Improving blood flow.

- Other benefits of regular physical activity ○ Better weight management
  ○ Increased energy
  ○ Greater mental alertness
  ○ Reduction in stress

V. General suggestions for starting or continuing an appropriate physical activity regimen:
  - Remember that everyone is different! A good physical activity routine may be very different from the person sitting next to you!
  - Check with your doctor before starting or changing the type or amount of physical activity you are doing
  - Don’t over do it! It takes time to get in shape – if you try to do too much at first you may injure yourself and/or get discouraged quickly

Group Activity: “Why Is the Church So Fat?”

Leader: Themes to discuss:
I. Recognition:
  ▪ What is getting in the way of me being Fine, Fit and Fabulous?
II. Indulgence
  ▪ Is it what you eat?
III. Gluttony
  ▪ How much you eat?
IV. Idolatry
  ▪ How often you eat?
V. Feed the flesh
  ▪ The way you prepare your food?
VI. Laziness and Time
  ▪ The lack of physical activity?
    ▪ Num. 11:4-6 - 4
VII. Separation/Deliverance
  ▪ Enough already! Put an end to grave digging with a fork, by burying what is causing you to neglect your temple. Bury old unhealthy habits before they bury you!

Leader: Each participant was asked to read the article “Why is the Church So Fat?” to prepare for this week’s group activity. Use the following outline as a guide to discuss the article:
I. The problem of obesity in the United States:
   a. Obesity and overweight cause and/or contribute to many illnesses, including heart disease, type 2 diabetes and arthritis.
   b. An estimated 400,000 deaths each year are attributable to improper diet and inadequate exercise.
   c. If this trend continues, obesity and overweight will soon be the leading causes of preventable death (surpassing tobacco use).
d. Despite increasing awareness of the benefits of maintaining a healthy weight, the percentage of adults who are either overweight or obese continues to increase.
e. One study indicates that obesity is most prevalent in states with the strongest religious affiliation. Southern Baptists had the highest average body weight and Jews and non-Christians had the lowest.

II. Reasons why the church is so fat:

a. Recognition – we can not address a problem without first acknowledging it.
   i. We have not acknowledged the problem of obesity in the church, nor the spiritual issues relating to it.
   ii. The church community is desensitized to the problem of obesity/overweight. The majority of the church is fat, so
      1. we are less likely to respond to the familiar
      2. we find reassurance in numbers
   iii. Failing to recognize the problem compromises our faith:
      1. our testimony is weakened
      2. we contribute to skyrocketing health care costs and become financial liabilities to society
      3. keeps some in a state of addiction, bondage and idolatry

b. Separation – faith in Christ is manifested in a lifestyle that is set apart and distinct from the world.
   i. The world system encourages us to yield to the carnal nature through satisfying our flesh and yielding to our cravings.
   ii. The Christian community, with its obesity problem, falls in line with the world system, especially in the areas of indulgence and excess.
   iii. The Word of God encourages us to choose a lifestyle marked by sobriety and moderation, not indulgence and excess.
   iv. God assures his children protection from disease only under the condition that we separate ourselves from worldliness.

c. Temptation – the Christian community has become increasingly complacent about temptation.
   i. The blood of Jesus covers our sins - we have become too comfortable in his grace and caving to temptation no longer grieves us.
   ii. God’s grace should not be used as a security net. Sin is destructive and usually bears consequences for everyone. Although many Christians stand in forgiveness for their indulgent and excessive behaviors, they still will pay the consequences in the form of poor health and perhaps an early death.

d. Subjection – subjecting the flesh means that you are in control of your decisions, not your body and its cravings.
   i. Unwillingness to subject the flesh contributes to obesity through gluttony and laziness (overeating and physical INactivity)
   ii. Many people offer excuses for not eating healthy, exercising and maintaining a healthy weight. The majority of excuses reflect an underlying need to discipline the flesh.

Leader: Don’t forget the nutrition post tests!!
Homework for Week 3: Get Ready to Make Lifestyle Changes

Bring an item from home that represents something you are willing to give up or cut down on as part your commitment to taking back your temple. Examples may include foods (fried chicken, sugar, salt, soda, etc.), emotions, behaviors (laziness, procrastination, etc.) or anything else that you wish to free yourself from.

MAKING LIFESTYLE CHANGES
(Continuation from Week 2)

Subject:
This class serves as a continuation of week 2. The subject of focus will be how to make lifestyle changes through discussion of the article “Why is the Church So Fat?”

Goals:
The goal of this lesson is to encourage and empower participants to make sustainable changes in their eating habits and physical activity regimens in order to improve their overall health and well being.

Objectives:
- Participants will identify one item, behavior, or emotion that they are willing to give up as a part of their commitment to making healthy lifestyle changes.

Teaching Method:
The information will be presented to participants through an open discussion format.

Training Aids:
Participants will receive written educational materials as determined by the leader. All participants should already have a copy of “Why is the Church So Fat?”

Homework for Week 4:
- Ask participants to read the following scripture passages to prepare for next week’s session.
  - Proverb 31:30
  - Esther 2:12
  - Proverb 16-18
- Assign scripts for next week’s role-play activity. Ask participants to review their passages before the next session.
- Encourage participants to complete their food and exercise logs.
Lesson Outline:

Continue discussion of “Why is the Church So Fat?”

Group Activity I: Take Back Your Temple, Become an Ex-Grave Digger

Each of you was asked to bring an item from home that represents something you are willing to give up or cut down on as part your commitment to taking back your temple. Each person in the group will have a chance to put their item in the “coffin” and explain the significance of the long-term lifestyle change that they are making.

Group Activity II: Long Term Priorities - Putting Food Where It Belongs

Think about six activities that you must perform each day in order to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous. Each group member will have the opportunity to share their list with the group and talk about the physical and spiritual consequences they will face if they do not perform these activities.

Homework for Week 4:

1. The next spiritual theme is Purpose Driven Reasons for Wanting To Be Fine, Fit and Fabulous. Please read the following scripture passages to prepare for this session:

   Proverb 31:30
   Esther 2:12
   Proverb 16-18

2. Today some of you will be assigned a script for next week’s role-play activity. Please review your lines before the next session.
Ms. Content & Complacent is resisting the truth about the need to live a healthy lifestyle. The underlying reasons are fear, denial and ignorance.

“...and how I eat. What’s it to them? So what if I went up for a third helping of fried chicken and mashed potatoes at last Sunday’s fellowship brunch? It’s no one’s business but my own. I eat what I like, when I like and how much I like – that’s the way it’s always been and that’s the way it’ll always be. My mother and my aunt got ‘the sugar’ because they ate too many sweets. I don’t like candy and stuff like that so I don’t have to worry about getting sick like they did. Good thing because they had a horrible time before they died. They both went blind and the doctor had to cut part of my aunt’s leg off. There’s no way I want to go through that – that’s why I don’t like to eat candy and cookies. Why waste time eating those things when there are other options like pizza, my homemade sausage lasagna and don’t forget biscuits and gravy! All this talk about food has made me hungry! I’m going home to make myself some chicken fried steak for dinner! Umm ummm!”

Ms. Discontent is genuinely interested in losing weight, but is ashamed of her appearance. She doesn’t exercise, avoids health clubs, parks, jogging suits, leotards and swimwear.

“Well, another fruitless trip to the YMCA. I just can’t work up the courage to go in to that step aerobics class. I would look so stupid next to all those young girls with their great figures – I’m sure they would laugh and talk about me when I’m not looking. I’d try swimming there if I could have my own private pool so no one could see me in my suit! I know I have to exercise if I expect to lose weight in time for my sister’s wedding. As her matron of honor, I certainly don’t want to embarrass her by looking like this! My doctor told me that healthy weight loss will happen with the right combination of healthy eating and regular exercise. I’m not so bad with my eating, but I hate the thought of exercising. It makes me feel clumsy and uncoordinated. I get so embarrassed because I can only do a little bit and then I have to rest. My face turns red and I get really sweaty – it’s gross. Why can’t I just take a magic pill that will make this extra weight disappear?”

Ms. Vanity is getting married in 3 months. She needs to lose 25 pounds in order to fit into her size 14 wedding dress. She has decided that she will begin her weight loss program tomorrow. After all, what difference will it make to wait just one more day – she only has to wear the dress once!

“I am just so excited for my wedding day! I have the most beautiful dress – my friends are going to be so jealous when they see me walking down that isle. I told the salon to order my dress two sizes smaller than what my measurements called for. Of course they tried to talk me out of it, but they don’t understand how determined I am to look good on my wedding day! My mom and sister are worried because I haven’t lost any weight yet, but I keep reminding them that I have three whole months left to get the pounds off. This is my plan – starting next month, I’ll just eat one meal per day and I’ll be set. If I slip up and eat more than that, I’ll just fast the day after to make up for it. I can’t wait -when my ex-boyfriend sees my wedding picture in the local paper, he’s going to eat his heart out!”

Purpose Driven Reasons for Wanting to Be Fine, Fit and Fabulous

“Charm is deceptive and beauty is fleeting” (Proverb 31:30)

Subject
Participants will learn about purpose driven reasons to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous. They will discuss unhealthy motives that people have for being Fine, Fit and Fabulous, like vanity or achieving a temporary goal.

Goals
The goal of this week’s lesson is to prepare participants to think about why they want to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous.

Objectives
- Participants will be able to identify their own motivating factors for wanting to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous
- Participants will be able to distinguish between vanity and a real desire to become more healthy

Teaching Method
The information will be presented to patients through an open discussion format

Training Aids
Participants will receive written educational material as needed.

Homework for Week 5
- Ask participants to write down a short summary or list of any “food rules” they may follow. Remind participants that there are no incorrect responses – they don’t even have to be “good” or healthy “rules” and may be something they are looking to change. Examples include:
  - “I try not to eat fast food more than three times per week.”
  - “I always have dessert after dinner.”
  - “I only eat food that I know tastes good.”
  - “I try to eat five to nine servings of fruits and vegetables per day.”
- Encourage participants to complete food and exercise logs.

Lesson Outline:

1) Do you think God created us to be purpose driven, to operate with intent – a motive, so to speak?
2) The bible gives us a number of examples of men and women who did extraordinary things (whether for good or evil) in order to fulfill a purpose or reach a goal. Example: Genesis 29

Think about other biblical characters that operated with a purpose in mind.
- What did they do?
- What is the driving force in your life?

3) Do you need a motive to want to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous?

4) Most people who set out to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous have a specific motive for doing so.
   Maybe the class reunion is fast approaching and you’re determined to be only 10 pounds heavier than when you graduated, not fifty. Or you may have booked a Caribbean cruise and simply refuse to slip on a bathing suit without first firming up and slimming down. Is there a wedding coming up? How about a family portrait? Did you buy a new Easter outfit?

   What motivates you?

5) Is the motive to change your outward appearance the right reason for wanting to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous?

   There is nothing wrong with wanting to look good. After all, Queen Esther received a year’s worth of beauty treatments before going into the royal chambers to visit the king (Esth 2:12), but appearance should not be the sole motivator for weight loss.

6) Becoming Fine, Fit and Fabulous for cosmetic reasons is an entirely goal-oriented approach.
   What does that mean?

   Once the goal is reached (or once the vacation or class reunion is over), we find ourselves without a motive. What happens then?

7) It is not about achieving the temporary goal of squeezing into that dress you bought for Easter that’s two sizes too small to begin with. What should be your focus?

8) Ironically, another reason why appearance alone should not be the primary motivator is that many people are quite satisfied with their appearance. Because they are content with being “pleasingly plump,” they have no real desire to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous, even when shedding a few pounds would improve their health. Why would we be content with a body weight that will cause excess illness?

9) Do you know anyone with serious medical problems related to improper diet, inadequate exercise and excessive body weight whom, despite being diagnosed with potential life threatening illnesses such as type 2 diabetes, high blood pressure and heart disease, still feel satisfied with their appearance (vanity)?

10) If you want to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous, do not allow yourself to be driven by vanity. Vanity is not a virtue; it is the cousin of pride and “pride goes before destruction” (Prov. 16-18)

11) Your motives should be twofold:
   • To improve your health if you already have weight-related illnesses
   • To maintain your health (through disease prevention) if you do not have weight-related illnesses.

12) Losing weight as an effort to maintain the temple of God is an honorable endeavor; any other reason borders on self-centeredness and vanity.

Group Activity
Three women experiencing different motives for and barriers to becoming Fine, Fit and Fabulous are all waiting for choir rehearsal to start. A conversation takes place about eating better and losing weight.

Leader: Last week different participants were assigned the following scripts. Ask one participant to read each script.

1. Ms. Content & Complacent is resisting the truth about the need to live a healthy lifestyle. The underlying reasons are fear, denial and ignorance. See attached script

2. Ms. Discontent is genuinely interested in losing weight, but is ashamed of her appearance. She doesn’t exercise, avoids health clubs, parks, jogging suits, leotards and swimwear. See attached script.

3. Ms. Vanity is getting married in 3 months. She needs to lose 25 pounds in order to fit into her size 14 wedding dress. She has decided that she will begin her weight loss program tomorrow. After all, what difference will it make to wait just one more day – she only has to wear the dress once! See attached script.

Leader: Ask participants: How should each of these women address their problems? What should each woman do in order to become Fine, Fit and Fabulous?
Homework for Week 5

Next week we will discuss the Dietary Guidelines for Americans. Before we go over the “official” recommendations we would like to find out what, if any, unofficial guidelines you follow on your own. Please write a short summary or list of any “food rules” you try to follow. Remember, there is no right or wrong answer. Here are some examples from previous participants:

“I try not to eat fast food more than three times per week.”
“I only eat food that I know tastes good.”
“I try to eat five to nine servings of fruits and vegetables per week.”

The class will focus on general concepts of the 2005 Dietary Guidelines for Americans that define a “healthy diet.” The key points of the class will include 1) eating a variety of foods from each food group with emphasis on fruits, vegetables, whole grains, and fat-free or low-fat milk and milk products, lean meats, poultry, fish, beans, and nuts; and 2) choosing foods low in saturated fats, trans fats, cholesterol, salt (sodium), and added sugar.

Goal:
The goal of the class is to familiarize participants with a few important nutrition concepts encompassed within the 2005 Dietary Guidelines for Americans.

Objectives:
- Participants will be able to identify one benefit of eating a variety of foods from each food group.
- Participants will be able to identify two health conditions associated with diets high in saturated fat, trans fats, cholesterol, salt (sodium), and added sugar.

Teaching Method:
The information will be presented to participants through an open discussion format.

Training Aids:
Participants will receive educational materials as needed. Suggested materials include:
- My Pyramid handouts from www.mypyramid.com

Special Note to Instructors:
Please inform participants that the recommendations in the Dietary Guidelines are intended for use by the general public over 2 years of age. The recommendations given in class should not be used as a therapeutic diet for any specific health condition. Individuals with a chronic health condition should consult with a health care provider to determine what dietary pattern is appropriate for them.

Evaluation:
Distribute Week 5 nutrition post tests to all participants.

Homework for Week 6:
1) After group activity and distribution of magnets, ask participants to “Dump some junk!” at home.
2) Ask participants to read the following scripture passages in preparation for the next session:
   - Deuteronomy 32:15
   - Titus 2:11-12

3) Encourage participants to complete food and exercise logs.

4) Assign participants character roles for next week’s group activity. Distribute scripts and ask them to review their scripts before the next session.

5) Ask participants to read the following in preparation for discussion at the next session:

   Food For Thought:

   A. “Diet” doesn’t have to mean deprivation.

   What are your thoughts on the following?
   - Some trust in diets, some trust in calorie counting, but we trust in God’s plan!
   - Scripture: Psalm 20:7
     Some trust in chariots and some in horses, but we trust in the name of the Lord our God.

   B. I can begin again!

   What are your thoughts on the following?
   - The fact that you are beginning again is a validation of God’s presence and handiwork in your life. He knows you and loves you, and at this moment He is ready to begin again to create His own beauty in your life.
   - Scripture: Isaiah 43:18-19
     Forget the former things; do not dwell on the past. See, I am doing a new thing!

   C. Through Christ’s power in me I can conquer any problem!

   What are your thoughts on the following?
   - Do you feel like a conqueror today? You are - even if you feel defeated and victory seems far away. If there’s one truth you cling to in the coming months, let it be this: Nothing – no amount of fat or failure can separate you from God’s love or rob you of the conquering power you inherited from HIM!
   - Scripture: Romans 8:37
     No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loves us.
Lesson Outline:
The following lesson describes a few basic components of the USDA’s Dietary Guidelines for Americans 2005. A complete set of guidelines can be found at:

http://www.healthierus.gov/dietaryguidelines/

1) The Dietary Guidelines describe a healthy diet as one that:

- Emphasizes fruits, vegetables, whole grains, and fat-free or low-fat milk and milk products;
- Includes a variety of lean meats, poultry, fish, beans, eggs, and nuts; and
- Is low in saturated fats, trans fats, cholesterol, salt (sodium), and added sugars.

The recommendations in the Dietary Guidelines are for the general public over 2 years of age and describe generalized overview of healthy eating. The guidelines are not to be used as or considered a therapeutic diet any specific health condition. Individuals with a chronic health condition should consult with a health care provider to determine what dietary pattern is appropriate for them.

2) Variety is another component of a healthy diet.

Leader: Ask participants: Why do you think it is important to eat a variety of foods?

- Different foods have different combinations of nutrients.
- A healthy diet is one which includes all different types of nutrients.
- One easy way to maximize your intake of different nutrients is to choose different types of foods from each food group everyday.
- When you take in foods that give you a lot of different nutrients, you are less likely to be deficient in important vitamins and minerals that you need to stay healthy.

3) Another way to move toward a healthy diet is to focus on eating whole foods, rather than processed or pre-prepared foods. Try to emphasize the following types of food in each food group:

- Fruits – All fresh varieties, canned varieties packaged in natural juices, frozen varieties without special sauces or syrups. Go easy on fruit juices – even 100% fruit juice has a lot of calories per serving.
- Vegetables – All fresh varieties, reduced-sodium or low sodium canned varieties, frozen varieties without special sauces
- Grains – whole grains including products made with whole wheat flour, bulgur (cracked wheat), oatmeal, whole cornmeal, brown rice
- Milk/Milk products - fat-free or low-fat milk, cheese, yogurt, and other milk products
- Meats/Beans – fish, poultry, lean meats, legumes and beans (preferably dried, not canned)
- Fats/oils – canola oil, olive oil, safflower oil (avoid solid fats such as lard, butter, shortening, saturated fats)
4) Leader: Ask participants “Why choose whole foods over processed/pre-prepared foods?”

- Foods that have been processed or pre-prepared (such as frozen meals, canned goods, boxed baked goods, fast food, dried flavor mixtures, etc) typically contain added colors, flavors, artificial preservatives, salt and added sugar. Some even contain trans fats.

- Additives in processed foods are used to:
  - Enhance flavor and texture
  - Keep the product looking fresh
  - Extend the shelf life

- Processed foods may look and taste good and may be perceived as convenient for people with busy schedules, but these foods are usually lacking in key health-promoting nutrients like fiber.

- Processed foods, when consumed regularly, can contribute to health problems such as excessive weight gain, heart disease, some cancers, diabetes, high blood pressure, etc.

Leader: Ask participants the following questions:

- How often do you eat processed/pre-prepared foods?
- How often do you eat whole foods?
- Why is it such a challenge for us to eat healthy foods (processed instead of whole)?
  - Answers may include time, convenience, etc.
- What are some behaviors that you can change by the next time we meet?
  - Examples may include:
    - Cut back on fast food – 2x/week instead of 4x/week
    - Prepare your lunch at home and bring it to work – start with 1x/week.
- Healthy changes don’t have to be huge! Lots of small changes will add up if you stick to them.

Leader: Don’t forget nutrition post tests!

Group Activity: Dump the Junk! Take Back Your Temple

Leader: Distribute “Dump the Junk” magnets to all participants.

Each participant will receive a “Dump the Junk” magnet to take home and hang on the refrigerator and a garbage bag. These will serve as reminders for you to get rid of some or all of the unhealthy food in your kitchen today!

Each participant should name at least one food that they plan to get rid of by the next session. Is there any type of food common to the whole group or several people? Feel free to form small support groups (i.e. Dump the Cookies Group or Dump the Ice Cream Group) to help each other stay on track. Each participant will be asked to report on their progress during the next session.
Homework for Week 6

Leader: Assign participants character roles for next week’s group activity and distribute scripts. Ask all participants to complete numbers 1, 2 and 4

1) The spiritual theme for next week is “Self Indulgence and Gluttony Are Sins.” Please read the following scripture passages in preparation for this session:
   - Deuteronomy 32:15
   - Titus 2:11-12
2) Dump some junk! Keep track of the food and/or behavior you get rid of this week as part of your commitment to making healthy lifestyle changes.
3) Some of you will be assigned character roles for one of next week’s group activities. Please review your script before the next session.
4) Please read the following questions and scripture passages for discussion next week (all participants).

Food For Thought:

A. “Diet” doesn’t have to mean deprivation.

What are your thoughts on the following?
- Some trust in diets, some trust in calorie counting, but we trust in God’s plan!
- Scripture: Psalm 20:7
  Some trust in chariots and some in horses, but we trust in the name of the Lord our God.

B. I can begin again!

What are your thoughts on the following?
- The fact that you are beginning again is a validation of God’s presence and handiwork in your life. He knows you and loves you, and at this moment He is ready to begin again to create His own beauty in your life.
- Scripture: Isaiah 43:18-19
  Forget the former things; do not dwell on the past. See, I am doing a new thing!

C. Through Christ’s power in me I can conquer any problem!

What are your thoughts on the following?
- Do you feel like a conqueror today? You are - even if you feel defeated and victory seems far away. If there’s one truth you cling to in the coming months, let it be this: Nothing – no amount of fat or failure can separate you from God’s love or rob you of the conquering power you inherited from HIM!
- Scripture: Roman 8:37
  No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loves us.
Brother Jones:

We all need to be rescued sometimes, but the best emancipations in life come when we are rescued from a brutal and destructive slave master who lives inside us. Isn’t it comforting to know that God sent His Son to earth to win for us just that kind of freedom! “So if the Son sets you free, you will be free indeed” (John 8:36).

The fact is we were created for freedom, not slavery. And prayer is one way we can tap into God’s emancipation power. By His Spirit, alive in our hearts, He is able to break down spiritual and emotional strongholds that we don’t even see – like bitterness, self-loathing, stubbornness, negative thinking, and fear. With His help, we never have to slide back into bondage.

Brother Jones prays:

Dear God,

today I claim Your promise that You are able to free me from anything inside or outside myself that may be holding me captive.
I know that You are stronger than any habit, dependency, or destructive pull in my life.

When my enemies –
temptation and old, bothersome habits of all kinds – attack, You are ready to save me if only I will call out for help.

Save me today, I pray.
Help me to do my part to stand firm and not slide back into slavery.
I don’t want to live there anymore.
Awesome God, because You have called me to freedom,
I am free indeed!

Amen.

Brother Jones speaks to Sister Sara:

Anyone trying to overcome addiction or to change habits needs four essential things: encouragement, accountability, spiritual power and prayer.

The apostle James tells us to pray for each other “so that you may be healed.” And isn’t healing what we’re really after? Healing of compulsions, healing of old hurts, healing of our own self-indulgent spirit?

Find a friend of faith who will partner with you on your dieting journey. Hold each other accountable, and hold one another up in prayer to the God who has all power. Friends hold each other up – and let divine power in.
Encouragement For All Our Brothers and Sisters:

Not only did God think up the whole idea of food, He actually intended that it be a good thing! He wanted food not just to keep us alive, but also to “gladden” us and to “sustain” us. God never intended for food to become your best friend or your path to fulfillment. But He also never intended for food to become your enemy.

Ultimately every source of food is a gift, a provision, from God’s hand. And when we adopt this attitude of gratitude, we actually defuse food’s power over us. Think of it this way – we don’t abuse what we’re thankful for, we abuse what we’re angry at ourselves for wanting in the first place.

Today take each bite with gladness and with the knowledge that God is the source of all life and the giver of every good gift. Food is a gift to receive with gratefulness, not greed.

A Prayer For All Our Brothers and Sisters:

Thank You, God,
For giving us food of all kinds, shapes, colors, aromas, textures, and flavors.
We praise You for strawberries!
And we delight in crisp yellow peppers and juicy oranges!
We praise You for giving us taste buds –
You didn’t have to do that!
We praise You also for those edible pleasures
That we sometimes abuse.
Today we ask for the grace to appreciate the daily sustenance You give us and to appreciate it so much that we don’t feel the need to be greedy.
Maker of everything delicious,
all day long we will notice Your genius and generosity, and we will honor You with our appetites and our attitude.
Amen.
DUMP THE JUNK!

Take control of your temple today!
Rid your home of the foods that tempt you!

Find your balance between food and physical activity
- Be sure to stay within your daily calorie needs.
- Be physically active for at least 30 minutes most days of the week.
- About 60 minutes a day of physical activity may be needed to prevent weight gain.
- For sustaining weight loss, at least 60 to 90 minutes a day of physical activity may be required.
- Children and teenagers should be physically active for 60 minutes every day, or most days.

Know the limits on fats, sugars, and salt (sodium)
- Make most of your fat sources from fish, nuts, and vegetable oils.
- Limit solid fats like butter, stick margarine, shortening, and lard, as well as foods that contain these.
- Check the Nutrition Facts label to keep saturated fats, trans fats, and sodium low.
- Choose food and beverages low in added sugars. Added sugars contribute calories with few, if any, nutrients.

SELF INDULGENCE AND GLUTTONY ARE SINS
Are you sinning?

“Jeshurun grew fat and kicked. Filled with food, he became heavy and sleek. He abandoned the God who made him and rejected the rock his savior” (Deut. 32:15)

Subject
Participants will discuss how people who engage in self-indulgence and gluttony are displaying sinful behavior, not unlike fornication and idolatry. Participants will be asked to think about the link between gluttony and other forms of addiction.

Goals
The goal of this week’s session is for participants to view overeating and gluttonous behavior as a form of sin instead of a natural, healthy way to live.

Objectives
- Participants will begin to view self-indulgence and gluttony as a form of addiction
- Participants will be able to assess their own eating habits and identify unhealthy habits

Teaching Method
The information will be presented to patients through an open discussion format

Training Aids
Participants will receive written educational material as needed

Homework for Week 7
1. Refer participants to the Fine, Fit and Fabulous “placemats” in the participant’s guide in the week 6 materials. Ask participants to:
   A. Choose one dinner meal during the week to complete this exercise.
   B. Trace their dinner plates (actual size) on the placemat - draw all plates, including salad plates, dinner plates, soup bowls, bread plates, etc. Use two placemats if all plates don’t fit on one.
   C. Draw the food that you ate for dinner on the placemats. Try to draw the actual size/portion of the different foods so your placemats give an accurate representation of what you actually ate at that meal.
   D. Remember to bring your placemats to next week’s session.

2. Encourage participants to complete food and exercise logs.
Lesson Outline:
1) Do you think that self indulgence of food is viewed by church folks in the same way as other sins?
   ▪ Giving into the craving of the flesh in any way, including indulging ourselves with food is a sin. The Bible links this form of sin to self-indulgence and gluttony.
   ▪ According to scripture, gluttony is a sin. It is included, along with drunkenness, in passages from Deuteronomy, Proverb, Matthew and Luke.
   ▪ “Jeshurun grew fat and kicked. Filled with food, he became heavy and sleek. He abandoned the God who made him and rejected the rock his savior” (Deut. 32:15).

2) Often, the issues that we believe which are self-indulgent, like the yielding of the flesh, are about sexual sin. But fleshly desires are more than just about fornication. They are about our lifestyle and our unwillingness to deny fleshly desires (unhealthy foods and over-eating).

3) Gluttony has become acceptable behavior because, unlike sex, which is not required to sustain our lives, eating is necessary for our survival.

4) Gluttony is like the sin of sexual immorality in that there is “comfort in numbers.” So many people fornicate and so many people overeat that we have become numb to the reality that these sinful behaviors grieve the Holy Spirit.

5) Do you know of anyone, or did you ever treat food as an idol to be worshipped? A friend to the lonely, a stress reducing agent or an antidepressant ▪ Gluttony is closely related to the sin of idolatry. The sin of idolatry is committed when we worship the things that God has created and give them control and authority in our lives that is reserved for God alone.
   ▪ Food fulfills this description
   ▪ Addiction – whether to tobacco, alcohol, drugs or excessive consumption of salty foods, fatty foods, sweets or soda – is a sin. The addict yields allegiance to a substance, giving it authority to control her/his behavior. That authority belongs only to God. The substance then becomes the idol – something that is worshipped in the place of God. The Bible is clear that we should worship God alone.

6) Does anyone have a personal experience with addiction that they would like to share?

7) Most Christians have participated in services where a fellowship meal was served following the worship service. All too often, plates are piled high with enough food to feed several people. The guilty parties are not the poor or the homeless who may not know when they will have another decent meal, but Christians committing the crime of gluttony in the house of the Lord.

8) Why do you think God created food?
9) What do you think separates the normal act of “eating to live” from the gluttonous act of “living to eat”?

God gave us human desires and appetites as a blessing; without them, we would not survive but He does not intend for us to be governed by them. Instead of being in control of our desires, our desires sometimes control us.

10) What can we do to keep the gift of food and the Giver separate and distinct?

Learn to give thanks to God for providing us with food to enjoy, never permitting food to fulfill any need beyond that which it was intended.

11) As Christians, we often succumb to the doctrine of indulgence that says, “If it feels good, do it.” Any personal experiences?

As Christians, we must remember that God calls us to subject our flesh for our protection, not as a punishment. His grace gives us everything we need to say no to our cravings, our laziness and our negative emotions. We have to be serious about denying the flesh.

For the grace of God has appeared, bringing salvation to all people. It trains us to reject godless ways and worldly desires and to live self-controlled, upright, and godly lives in the present age. (Tit. 2: 11-12)

12) John tells us that our purification comes from confession of sin. But it is rare to hear someone confess, “I eat too much.” More commonly, there is defensiveness and denial of any wrongdoing.

13) Unfortunately, when sin goes unconfessed, the behavior continues, and so do the consequences.

▪ In the case of gluttony and lack of physical activity, the consequences are severe: weight-related illnesses and premature death.
▪ Forgiveness for the sins of gluttony and idolatry require confession and repentance, just like any other.
▪ As we humble ourselves to ask God for forgiveness, He will, and we can begin to experience freedom from the bondage of sin. The Holy Spirit longs to cleanse our temple and fill it with the glory of God, manifested in the fruit of the Spirit.

Group Activity

Sister Santiago is a member of Shady Grove Baptist Church. She leads the “Single Sisters in Crisis Ministry.” Sister Santiago meets Deacon Santos at the annual church picnic. They are both single and in their early 40s. They recently started a Wednesday night bible study at Sister Santiago’s house and ended up spending the night together.
Brother Jones attends church regularly. He acknowledges that he has an addiction to alcohol and needs help from the Lord to overcome his addiction. He has also confessed that he was yielding to the desires of the flesh and has allowed himself to be controlled by a substance rather than by God. Many addicts refuse to acknowledge that they have a problem, or are too proud to admit that they are powerless to overcome their addiction. Instead, Brother Jones continued to attend Wednesday night monthly deliverance services and abstain from drugs and alcohol. He has perfect attendance. He is thankful that God has delivered him; he has been alcohol-free for three years. As a matter of fact, he is feeling so good, he is thinking of asking Sister Sara if she would like to commit to fasting and praying with him. Fasting and praying keeps him connected to God, the source of his strength in staying sober.

(One participant should now read “Brother Jones speaks” and “Brother Jones prays.”)

Sister Sara is on the culinary committee at her church. She loves the Lord, loves to cook, and loves to eat. Sister Sara is a diabetic, suffers from high blood pressure, and is obese. Since she has been a member of this church, she has gained forty pounds. Every Sunday during the fellowship meal following the worship service, Sister Sara piles her plate with enough food to feed several people. Her favorite meal is fried chicken, baked macaroni and cheese, rice and peas, candied yams, string beans, cornbread and peach cobbler. Sister Sara likes her food well seasoned and always adds a little extra salt and butter. She knows that she is pleasingly plump but doesn’t know why, because she believes that she doesn’t eat much.

(One participant should read “Brother Jones speaks to Sister Sara.”)

Sister Carrie and Sister Liz always eat with Sister Sara. Sister Sara’s conversation is always about what she is planning to cook and eat for her dinner meal. Sister Carrie and Sister Liz are more interested in discussing what kind of action should be taken against Sister Santiago and Brother Santos. These sisters do not have a lot of tolerance for church folks that are addicted to mind altering drugs like Brother Jones, and fornicate like Sister Santiago and Brother Santos. The sisters think they both should be thrown out of church.

Discussion Questions:
1) What has most helped Brother Jones stay committed to his sobriety? Can this be used to help overcome other addictions? Name some other types of addictions?
2) Do the actions and behaviors that Sister Santiago and Brother Santos exhibit differ from Sister Sara? Why or why not?
3) Why does Brother Jones want to ask Sister Sara to join him in fasting and prayer? Why might Sister Sara resist?
4) How do you feel about Sister Carrie and Sister Liz? Are they exhibiting indulgent behaviors? How would you respond to their conversations about other church members?
(One participant should read “Encouragement for our Brothers and Sisters” and “A prayer for our Brothers and Sisters.”)

Group Activity II

Discussion - Food For Thought:

A. “Diet” doesn’t have to mean deprivation.

What are your thoughts on the following?
- Some trust in diets, some trust in calorie counting, but we trust in God’s plan!
- Scripture: Psalm 20:7
  Some trust in chariots and some in horses, but we trust in the name of the Lord our God.

B. I can begin again!

What are your thoughts on the following?
- The fact that you are beginning again is a validation of God’s presence and handiwork in your life. He knows you and loves you, and at this moment He is ready to begin again to create His own beauty in your life.
- Scripture: Isaiah 43:18-19
  Forget the former things; do not dwell on the past. See, I am doing a new thing!

C. Through Christ’s power in me I can conquer any problem!

What are your thoughts on the following?
- Do you feel like a conqueror today? You are - even if you feel defeated and victory seems far away. If there’s one truth you cling to in the coming months, let it be this: Nothing – no amount of fat or failure can separate you from God’s love or rob you of the conquering power you inherited from HIM!
- Scripture: Roman 8:37
  No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loves us.

Homework for Week 7

Instruct participants to use the two “placemats” included in the participant’s guide with week 6 materials as follows: One night this week before the next session, trace your actual dinner plate(s) on the placemat as best you can so it shows the actual size of your plate. You should draw all plates, including salad plates, dinner plates, soup bowls, bread plates, etc – anything from which you eat your dinner. Use two placemats if all the plates don’t fit on one. Then, draw the food that you ate for dinner. Try to draw the actual size/portion of the different foods so your placemats give an accurate representation of what you actually ate at that meal. Remember to bring your placemats to next week’s session.

FAST FOOD AND OVEREATING
Forget McDonald’s, make God’s presence your comfort food!

Subject:
The nutrition portion of this class will focus on two specific types of indulgence – fast food and over-eating. The first part of the discussion will include an explanation of why the majority of fast food items are unhealthy and will offer tips for making healthier choices at fast food restaurants. Having to choose from a menu of unhealthy foods should not always serve as an excuse to overindulge. Even when faced with unhealthy options, you can make certain choices that are healthier than others.

Having to choose from a menu of unhealthy foods should not always serve as an excuse to overindulge. Even when faced with unhealthy options, you can make certain choices that are healthier than others.

The second part of the discussion will focus on portion size awareness. Topics of discussion will include the increasing/growing portion sizes in our society and how this has affected our perception of food, eating habits, and overall health. Participants will also learn tools that will help to increase portion size awareness and tips that will help them to manage their own portions of food.

Goals:
The goal this portion of the lesson is to educate participants on why fast food is generally unhealthy and how they can make healthier choices, even in an unhealthy environment. Participants will also be educated on identifying appropriate portions of food as a way to prevent over-eating.

Objectives:
- Participants will be able to identify four unhealthy components of most fast foods.
- Participants will be able to identify two ways to make a healthier choice at a fast food restaurant.
- Participants will be able to use a visual tool to help them correctly identify one serving of grains, fruits and vegetables, dairy, and meat.

Teaching Method:
The information will be presented to participants through an open discussion format.

Training Aids:
Participants will receive written educational materials as needed, including
- Serving Size Card
- Portion Sizes handout
- Plate Method handout
- Sample “Plate Method” plates

Evaluation:
Distribute Week 7 nutrition post tests.
Homework for Week 8:

1. Ask participants to read the following scripture passages in preparation for next week:

   Deuteronomy 32:15
   Titus 2: 11-12
   1 Corinthian 9:25
   Proverbs 25:28
   John 10:10
   Luke 4:3
   Matthew 4:4
   Matt 6:13
   James 1:14
   Phillippians 4:8
   Heb. 2:18
   Heb. 7:25
   1 Corinthians 10:12-13

2. Encourage participants to complete food and exercise logs.

Lesson Outline:

Fast Food

Leader:

- Ask participants to name some of their favorite/most frequented fast food restaurants. Examples may include McDonalds, Burger King, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Wendy’s, Taco Bell, various pizza places, Chinese take out, etc.

- Ask participants “How many times per week do you eat fast food?”

- Ask participants “Why do you choose fast food instead of a home-cooked meal?” Answers may include limited time, work schedules, fatigue, convenience, etc. Discuss these answers and how it is still important to try to make healthy choices even when we are tired and in a hurry.

- Ask participants “Does anyone in the room have diabetes, high blood pressure, trouble maintaining a healthy weight, heart disease, high cholesterol? If so, then pay special attention because fast foods may be contributing to your health problems/issues.”

1) Why are many fast food items unhealthy?

- High fat content (including the “bad” fats = saturated and trans fats)
- High cholesterol content
- High sodium content (salt)
- High in calories
2) The most ideal, healthy option is to cook a low-fat, low-sodium, high fiber meal at home. But, we don’t live in an ideal world. So, when you decide to grab a quick meal at a fast food restaurant try to choose the healthier options that are available.

Here are some ideas:

- Ask for nutritional information so you can make a sensible choice.
- Drink water, plain soda water, or skim milk instead of soft drinks. This will save you a lot of calories.
- Hold the cheese, bacon, and mayo. These items add extra saturated fat and a lot of calories.
- Choose “grilled” instead of “crispy.” Crispy = fried = lots of fat and calories.
- Ask for pizza with half the regular amount of cheese and add veggie toppings like peppers, onions, mushrooms, tomatoes, broccoli, and spinach.
- Request all dressings, condiments, and sauces on the side so you can control how much you use. Many sauces and dressings add a great deal of fat, calories, and sodium to your meal. To cut back just use half the amount.
- If possible, substitute a side salad (with dressing on the side) for French fries or onion rings. If you don’t want to give up your fries, order the smallest size and/or share with a friend.
- Don’t “supersize”! Stick to small-sized sandwiches, drinks, fries, and other sides. Remember, the “large” or “supersized” items are typically 2-3x the size of an appropriate serving.

Portion Sizes:

1) Healthy eating includes making healthful food choices and understanding serving sizes.

2) Portions of food are a lot bigger than they used to be and so are people! Many of us, without realizing it, have become used to seeing more food on our plate at restaurants and at home.

3) Studies have shown that people are more likely to eat more if there is more food in front of them.

4) Portion size awareness is a crucial factor in trying to achieve or maintain a healthy weight because it helps you recognize an appropriate amount of food.

5) For most people, it can be difficult to visualize “½ cup of vegetables” or “3oz of meat” let alone “one serving” of something. Here are some everyday comparisons to help you figure out your serving sizes:
   - One teaspoon of margarine is the size of the tip of your thumb to the first joint.
   - Three ounces of meat is the size of a deck of cards.
   - One cup of pasta is the size of a tennis ball.
   - One half of a medium bagel is the size of a hockey puck.
   - An ounce and a half of cheese is the size of three dominoes stacked together.
- Two tablespoons of peanut butter are the size of a ping pong ball.
- One-half cup of vegetables is the size of a light bulb.

Leader:

Ask participants to look at the “Serving Size Card” and “Serving Sizes” handout for more comparisons.

- These comparisons will help them get a good sense of serving sizes so they can compare them to amounts they normally eat and make any necessary changes.
- Encourage participants to carry their “Serving Size Card” with them to help them manage their portions and avoid over-eating.

6) Make sure to carry the Serving Size Card with you wherever you go. Here are some examples of how it can help you:

- You are at a restaurant and decide to order beans and rice.

  Your plate comes and you pull out your “Serving Size Card” to get an idea of how much food is in front of you.

- You see that the amount of rice on your plate looks similar to the size of 1 ½ baseballs.

- Based on the information listed on the “Serving Size Card” you know that this is considered much more than one serving of rice (3x one serving).

- Because you are trying to achieve a healthy weight and are concerned about over-eating, you decide to eat only ½ of the rice on your plate and to take the rest in a “to go” bag to eat at your next meal.

7) Another option to help you control portions is to use the “Plate Method.”

- Use a 9 ½ inch plate divided into three sections (you can purchase plastic plates that are sectioned at the dollar store or you can just visualize the sections).

- The 9 ½ inch plate is likely much smaller than your normal dinner plate. Ask participants if the sample plate looks different than the ones they use at home and if so, how?

- The object of the “Plate Method”:
  - Fill ½ of the plate with non-starchy vegetables such as mixed greens, spinach, broccoli, cauliflower, carrots, zucchini, celery, collards, etc. These non-starchy vegetables are high in nutrients (vitamins and minerals) but very low in fat and calories (as long as you don’t top them with butter, creamy sauces, cheese, etc.).
  - Starchy vegetables include potatoes (French fries, mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, yams, yucca, and all other forms), beans (kidney, garbanzo, lentil, lima, black, red, white, etc), corn, peas, and winter squash.
  - Fill ¼ of the plate with lean meat, fish, or source of protein
  - Fill ¼ of the plate with a starch (a starchy vegetable, bread, rice, pasta, dinner roll, etc).
  - Wait 10 minutes before going back for second helpings to let your body realize how much you’ve eaten already.
  - Another suggestion – if you decide to take seconds, take only the non-starchy vegetables.
Leader:

- Ask participants if this is the way they normally fill their plate?
- Re-iterate to participants to focus on small changes. Perhaps they might want to try using the plate method twice/week or on a specific day when the family typically sits down for a big meal.

8) Other suggestions for avoiding fast food (or any type of food) binges:

- Plan ahead! If you plan meals in advance you are less likely to make last minute, unhealthy decisions based on hunger.

- Bring a snack with you during the day. This way if you get hungry you will already have something to nibble on and you won’t be tempted to stop in at a fast food restaurant, the local bakery, or the candy isle at the supermarket for a quick fix.

Examples of healthy snacks to carry with you:

- Single-serving boxes of cereal, trail mix, energy bars, granola bars, cereal bars
- Raw fruit and vegetables including carrot and celery sticks, grapes, single-serve applesauce, whole fruit (apples, peaches or bananas) or dried fruit mix.
- Bottled water, plain or flavored seltzer water, and juice boxes (100% juice only)

Group Activity:

Last week you were asked to draw your dinner plate(s) on a Fine, Fit and Fabulous placemat. Now that you are familiar with the “plate method” and appropriate portion sizes of different kinds of food,” take turns discussing your placemats.

- Explain what is on your placemat (what foods did you draw)?
- Does your plate look like the one used in the “plate method”? Why or why not?
- Estimate how many servings of each food are on your plate.
- What changes, if any, can be made to make your plate healthier?

Serving Sizes

Even if you eat healthy foods each day, you may not be eating as well as you think — because of the amount of food on your plate!

The amount of food you eat can be as important to your good health as what you eat.

This booklet lists serving sizes of foods from the different food groups. Use this guide to help you control your portions!

Fitness Goal for the week: ______________________________________________________________________________

Week of ___________________________  Church: ___________________________

Name _______________________________________________________________________________________________
Fine, Fit and Fabulous
Week 8 Lesson Plan

SELF DISCIPLINE, MODERATION AND SELF-CONTROL
Is that your stomach growling, or your soul?

“Everyone who competes in the games goes into strict training. They do it to get a crown that will not last; but we do it to get a crown that will last forever” (1 Corinthians 9:25)

Subject
Participants will discuss how to practice self-discipline, moderation and self-control in the face of many forms of temptation.

Goals
The goal of this week’s session is to help participants begin to think about how their lifestyle choices around health are influenced by their faith.

Objectives
- Participants will be able to identify sources of temptation and use their Christian beliefs to combat them
- Participants will develop strategies for taking control of their health

Teaching Method
The information will be presented to participants through an open discussion format.

Training Aids
Participants will receive written educational material as needed. Suggestions include:
- Making Healthy Lifestyle Changes

Homework for Week 9
1. Ask participants to complete food logs EACH DAY this week and bring them to next week’s session. Participants will need them for the group activity.
2. Encourage participants to complete exercise logs.

Lesson Outline

1) Do you think you can be a Christian and do everything you want to do, living a life without discipline, moderation and self-control?
   - Like a city whose walls are broken down is a man who lacks self-control (Proverbs 25:28).
Without self-control we become vulnerable to our enemy Satan, whose purpose is to steal, kill and destroy (John 10:10).

Self-control is the only fruit of the spirit with a bad reputation. Too often we have a tendency to focus on all the things we are missing when we practice self-control, rather than all the benefits of being protected from the things that will harm us.

Once we yield to lack of restraint in any area, the wall of self-control crumbles even more, opening us to even greater temptation. The end result is a complete lack of self-control.

In the case of obesity, losing control might sound like, “well, as heavy as I am, what difference will one more piece of sweet potato pie make?”

2) What do you think it takes to stop at one scoop of ice cream or one small piece of sweet potato pie?

3) Whatever the root of the problem that has caused you to become overweight or obese, your role now is to become accountable and accept responsibility to develop the fruit of your self-control.

As you allow the Holy Spirit to work in your life, you will find strength to make the right choices and become responsible for your actions. We are victims of obesity and diet-related deaths because of our lifestyles.

4) Have you ever been tempted to do something that you know was wrong and chose not to do it? How did you resist? Can you use the same approach for resisting the temptation to overeat?

We will not live victoriously in the area of our health until we choose to take control of our lifestyles – control over what we eat, how much we eat, and how we exercise.

5) What are you going to say to yourself or to your buddy when it’s time to engage in a physical exercise and you just don’t feel like getting started?

6) The question to ask yourself is this: “Am I powerless in this situation?” If you believe that you are completely powerless, that your condition and circumstances are beyond your control, then the first step for you to take is to overcome the victim mentality.

We are fully capable of taking control of our lives. God, in His infinite wisdom, knew that we would have the tendency to give in to our flesh, so He gave us the fruit of the spirit of self-control.
7) Temptation is the number one enemy for anyone trying to mature in the area of self-control. Our short and long-term goal in making healthier lifestyle choices is to become consistent resisters of temptation.

To accomplish our goals, however, we must first understand what the Bible says about temptation and how God expects us to respond to it. The Bible makes it clear that God will often test us, but He will not entice us to commit a sin.

He will allow us to experience temptation from several sources: Satan, other people, and even ourselves.

8) WE ARE TEMPTED BY SATAN.
   - The Gospels record the account of how Satan, as the tempter, confronted Jesus in the wilderness and tried to entice Him to eat: “The devil said to him, ‘if you are the Son of God, tell this stone to become bread’” (Luke 4:3).

   - In His response to Satan, Jesus does not deny the truth in Satan’s statement. Jesus does not tell Satan, “You are wrong; I am not really that hungry at all.” This would have been a lie, given the circumstances. Instead, He answers him with a higher truth: “It is written. Man does not live on bread alone.” (Matthew 4:4)

   - Jesus was in the wilderness, enduring hunger and denying His physical needs in order to accomplish His greater mission.
     i) When it comes to obesity, weight loss, and implementing a “heart healthy” lifestyle, you also have a greater mission that is more important than the mild discomfort of hunger. That mission is one of honoring our physical bodies – God’s temple – by treating them in a way that promotes health, strength and longevity. Feelings of hunger should be expected with any attempt to lose weight.
     ii) It is not possible to lose weight and keep it off without ever once experiencing hunger. And when hunger hits us, we can expect Satan, the tempter, to entice us to yield. But thank God for the wonderful power of the Holy Spirit who dwells within us. When Satan comes to tempt us, we can learn the secret of yielding to the fruit of the Spirit of self-control that empowers us to resist temptation.

9) WE ARE TEMPTED BY OTHER PEOPLE.
   - The second source of temptation is from other people (intentional or unintentional).
     i) Some people may not know that you are trying to lose weight and will offer you things to eat in an effort to be polite. This is unintentional temptation and should be addressed by simply telling the person that you are trying to control your eating habits.
     ii) A person whose motives are pure will understand and stop offering you food.
The bigger problem comes in dealing with temptation from people who are intentionally tempting you.

i) These people either want you to fail, or they want you to succeed but are under the impression that enticing you with food is beneficial, that it will serve to “make you strong.”

ii) Constant exposure to whatever you find tempting will not build up your immunity to desiring these foods in the same way our bodies do when they are exposed to germs.

iii) We cannot “fight off” temptation the way we fight off the common cold.

According to Scripture, rather than expose ourselves to temptation, we should turn the other way, asking the Holy Spirit for the fruit of self-control to help us avoid those things that tempt us.

i) Asking God in prayer to shield us from temptation not only makes common sense, it is also the way Jesus instructed us to pray.

ii) “And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one.” (Matt 6:13)

iii) What should you do with people who insist on tempting you?

iv) Learn from the experience – use wisdom and discretion the next time before you speak. Everyone does not need to know your weight loss goals.

10) WE ARE TEMPTED BY OURSELVES

Finally, we are often the source of our own temptations.

i) James 1:14 tells us that, “Temptation comes from the lure of our own evil desires.”

ii) When we allow our minds to be preoccupied with thoughts about those foods that tempt us, we are setting ourselves up to be “enticed.”

The Holy Spirit gives us power to control all of our thoughts – even those thoughts that we find irresistible.

i) Many overweight and obese individuals spend too much time thinking about food. We should not let ourselves become preoccupied with what we will eat, when we will eat it, how we will prepare it and what we will serve with it.

ii) Rather than dwell on things that ensnare us, the Bible tells us what things our mind should feast upon: “brothers, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable—if anything is excellent or praiseworthy—think about such things.” (Philippians 4:8).

11) Biblical truth regarding temptation: “Because Jesus himself suffered when He was tempted, He is able to help those who are being tempted.” (Heb. 2:18)

12) Jesus understands our pain.

i) It is important to note that Jesus was tempted with food at a time when He had not eaten for forty days. He was genuinely hungry and had a real physical need for food. A desire for the mere taste of the food (whether you are hungry or not) will cause many of us to yield to temptation.

- Still, Jesus can relate to our struggle because He knows the pain of being seriously tempted with food. We should remind ourselves continuously that Christ is praying for us to be victorious in the face of temptation (Heb. 7:25).

13) Use the word as your defense

- Another thing worth mentioning about the manner in which Christ dealt with temptation is that He quoted the Word of God in His defense. One passage that will be helpful to memorize if you are trying to become Fine, Fit and Fabulous and honor God by taking care of your temple is: “If you think you are standing firm, be careful that you don't fall! No temptation has seized you except what is common to man. And God is faithful; he will not let you be tempted beyond what you can bear. But when you are tempted, he will also provide a way out so that you can stand up under it. (1 Corinthians 10:12-13)

14) Temptation is common; it is universal. Everyone is tempted. You are not alone. Sometimes just knowing this is sufficient to provide the extra surge of strength we need to overcome temptation. Most of us have no idea how much temptation we can bear because we yield long before we reach our limit. Apostle Paul wrote to Corinthian Church that our faithful Father, “will not let you be tempted beyond what you can bear.” (1 Corinthians 10:13)

15) Sometimes the means of escape is as simple as closing the refrigerator door and leaving the kitchen. It might require you to drive down a different street to avoid your favorite fast food restaurants or bakery. Whatever the case, instead of spending time struggling with the source of the temptation, immediately begin to look for what God has promised – a way out.

16) Learn to watch and pray

We should never lose sight of the fact that no matter how strong we think we are, we will always have the potential to fall. In order to exercise self-control and resist temptation, we need to heed the words of Christ – watch and pray. Keep alert and pray. Otherwise, temptation will overpower you. For though the spirit is willing enough, the body is weak!

Group Activity

Sister Sherry has decided to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous for the right reasons. As a believer, she knows that her body is the living temple of the Holy Spirit and she wants to honor God by taking care of her body and improving her health. Sister Sherry understands that the best time to start changing bad habits is the present, and that caring for her body is not something to decide to do at a future date or for a limited amount of time. She has always honored God through her worship, her giving and her service.
Today she is making the commitment to rely on the Holy Spirit—not her own abilities—to strengthen her resolve to break old habits and replace them with new, healthier practices that she will follow for the rest of her life.

Questions for discussion:
1) What are some of the right reasons for wanting to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous?
2) Why is it important to rely on the Holy Spirit when making lifestyle changes?
3) What obstacles might Sherry face as she tries to replace old habits with new, healthier practices? What obstacles have you faced when trying to make healthy lifestyle changes in the past?

Homework for Week 9

Next week’s topic is 5-A-Day the Color Way. Please be sure to complete your food logs this week and bring them to the next session.
Making Healthy Lifestyle Changes

Philippians 4:13
“I can do all things through Christ, who strengthens me.”

Luke 10:19
“Behold, I give you authority to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy.”

Any one who has ever tried to break an old habit or develop a new one knows the task can be challenging. And implementing a “heart-healthy” lifestyle is no exception. You must change several things:

♦ What you eat
♦ How much you eat
♦ How often you eat
♦ The way you prepare your food
♦ Your level of physical activity

But even before you attempt to make changes, you must acknowledge the difficulty of the task.

A heart healthy diet is different from the typical American diet. It is high in fruits, vegetables, whole grains, beans and legumes. It requires that we cut back on food high in saturated fat and trans-fat and instead eat more foods containing monounsaturated fats and omega 3 fatty acids.

Living in a heart-healthy way also requires us to exercise regularly and strive to maintain a healthy weight. These dramatic changes cannot be realized if we are unwilling to deny the flesh.

2 Corinthians 12:9
“He has said to me, ‘My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness.’”

2 Peter 1:3
“His divine power has given us everything we need for life and godliness through our knowledge of Him who called us by His own glory and goodness.”

5-A- DAY THE COLOR WAY!

Subject:
The nutrition portion of the class will focus on the important role that fruits and vegetables play in our diet. The discussion will include a basic overview of the nutrients that fruits and vegetables provide, including the wide range of vitamins, minerals, and phytochemicals found in different colored plant foods. Participants will be encouraged to choose a variety of different colored fruits and vegetables everyday to obtain maximum health benefits and to achieve and/or maintain a healthy weight and lifestyle.

Goals:
The goal this portion of the lesson is to emphasize the importance of choosing a variety of different colored fruits and vegetables everyday.

Objectives:
- Participants will be able to recognize examples of fruits and vegetables in different color groups.
- Participants will be able to identify one health benefit of choosing a variety of different colored fruits and vegetables everyday.

Teaching Method:
The information will be presented to participants through an open discussion format.

Training Aids:
Participants will receive written educational materials as needed. Suggestions include:
- Eat Your Colors handout
- 5-A-Day Tally worksheet

Evaluation:
Distribute Week 9 nutrition post tests.

Homework:
1) Ask participants to read the following scripture passages to prepare for the next session:
   - 1 Corinthians 6:19-20
   - Matt 19:18-19
2) Assign role plays for next week and distribute scripts for each character. Ask participants to review their assigned script before the next session.

Lesson Outline:
1. Why are fruits and vegetables an important part of a healthy diet and lifestyle?
   a. They are generally low in fat and calories and fit well into a heart healthy diet.
   b. They contain a variety of important nutrients such as fiber, vitamins and minerals.
c. The deeply colored varieties may provide specific health benefits through special substances called phytochemicals (pronounced fie – toe – chemicals).

II. What are these special substances called phytochemicals?
   a. They are naturally occurring substances found only in plant foods, such as fruits, vegetables, legumes, grains, and seeds.
   b. Plants produce these substances to protect themselves against viruses, bacteria, and fungi.
   c. They have recently been found to provide health benefits in people, including protection against many diseases including heart disease and some cancers.
   d. Different health benefits are associated with different phytochemicals.
   e. Different phytochemicals are associated with the different colors of deeply colored plants (fruits and vegetables).
   f. To get the maximum health benefits from fruits and vegetables, it is important to choose a variety of types and colors everyday.

III. What are the different color groups and the health benefits associated with them?
   a. Blue/purple
      i. Examples: Eggplant, blueberries
      ii. Include these foods in a low-fat diet to help lower your risk of some cancers* and maintain urinary tract health, immune function, memory function, and healthy aging.
   b. Green
      i. Examples: Spinach, kale and other dark green leafy vegetables ii. Include these foods in a low-fat diet to help lower your risk of some cancers* and maintain vision health, strong bones and teeth.
   c. White/Tan/Brown
      i. Examples: Onion, garlic, mushrooms
      ii. Include these foods in a low-fat diet to help lower your risk of some cancers* and to maintain heart health, immune function and cholesterol levels that are already healthy.
   d. Yellow/Orange
      i. Examples: Squash, cantaloupe, peppers, citrus fruits
      ii. Include these foods in a low-fat diet to help lower your risk of some cancers* and maintain heart health, vision health, and a healthy immune system
   e. Red
      i. Examples: Tomatoes, peppers, red berries
      ii. Include these foods in a low-fat diet to help lower your risk of some cancers* and maintain a healthy heart, memory function, and urinary tract health.

NOTE: *Low fat diets rich in fruits and vegetables and low in saturated fat and cholesterol may reduce the risk of some types of cancer, a disease associated with many factors. [Reference: www.5aday.org]

IV. Tips for including fruits and vegetables in your diet
   a. Choose a piece of fruit for a snack instead of chips, candy, or crackers.
   b. Chop nutrient rich vegetables and add to soups, spaghetti sauce, stews, and casseroles.
   c. Keep cut-up fruits and vegetables in the refrigerator for easy snacking.
Group Activity:

Participants will need to refer to their completed food logs from last week. Using the 5-A-Day tally worksheet provided, tally the number of servings and note the color of all fruits and vegetables you ate each day. Each participant should discuss her findings with the group. Some points to discuss:

- Are you surprised at the number of servings of fruits and vegetables you typically eat each day? Why or why not?
- Based on your results, do you eat more fruits or vegetables?
- Based on the color groups you checked for each day, do you think you eat a variety of fruits and vegetables?
- From which color group did you eat the least? Name some fruits or vegetables in that color group that you can incorporate into your diet.

Homework for Week 10

1) The next spiritual theme is Honor God by Taking Care of Your Temple. Please read the following scripture passages to prepare for this session:

   1 Corinthians 6:19-20
   Matt 19:18-19

2) Today some of you will be assigned a script for next week’s role-play activity. Please review your lines before the next session.
Sister Jacqueline:
Exercise? HA! If I find any free time in my crazy schedule, I do not plan on spending it in a gym. I don’t get up at 5:00am every week day to do my hair and makeup just to go and mess it up a few hours later! Besides, I’d never see my kids if I took time to exercise after work. I’m already the last parent to pick up my kids from the after school program. They’d never let me forget it if I started showing up any later! Exercise on the weekends? No way! That is my time to relax - working up a sweat on a treadmill is NOT my idea of relaxation. My kids and I like to sit on the couch and watch DVDs all day. This is the only time we have to just hang out as a family. The kids are always stressed because they have to take all these tests at school. I’m stressed because my company is in the process of downsizing and I have to be on my toes 100% of the time. On the weekends we simply need a break. There is just no room in our schedule to exercise.

Sister Louise:
Did you hear the latest? Some lady in Florida lost 15 pounds in 10 days on a diet coke, hot dog and lima bean diet. The best part is she didn’t have to exercise at all and could eat dessert every night! I’m going to start this diet on Monday. I need to lose about 30 pounds, so if I can just follow this diet for twice as long as the lady in Florida, I should be able to lose twice as much weight, right? I’m going to convince a few other women in the choir to do go on the diet with me because misery sure does love company! I wonder if I could swap the diet coke for something with more caffeine. I always feel so tired when I try a new diet, so something with more caffeine would help me stay awake. I bet one of those triple strength caramel mocha latte frappuccinos from Starbucks would have more caffeine than a diet coke. I could buy one on my way to work and start the day off right! I can’t wait to get this weight off. Then I can go back to living life the way I want and not have to worry about watching what I eat.

Sister Dorothy:
I’m done making excuses. I’m done looking for quick fixes. I’m done putting my health low on my priority list. God gave me a glorious gift – my body – and I will honor him by taking good care of it. This may mean that I have to eat differently, that I have to move more, that I have to practice more self-discipline and that I have to accept a different way of living. I owe it to myself and, most importantly, I owe it to God to take care of my temple. From this moment on, I will do whatever it takes to live a healthier life. I’m finally ready.

Fitness Goal for the week

_____________________________________________________________________________

Week of _______________________________________ Church___________________________________________________ Name _______________________________________________________________________________________________ HONOR GOD BY TAKING CARE OF YOUR TEMPLE
Is the Holy Spirit at home in your body?

“Do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit, who is in you, whom you have received from God? You are not your own; you were bought at a price. Therefore honor God with your body.” (1 Corinthians 6:19-20)

Subject
Participants will discuss how taking care of their temple is part of their responsibility to God. They will also be asked to think about how to make changes in their lives.

Goals
The goal of this week’s session is for participants to use the concept of agape love (self love) to explore the type of lifestyle changes they want to make.

Objectives
- Participants will identify two changes they want to make in order to live a healthier life
- Participants will discuss strengths and struggles in making those changes

Teaching Method
The information will be presented to patients through an open discussion format

Training Aids
Participants will receive written educational material as needed. Suggestions include:
- Character scripts for group activity
- “Spiritual Insight for Making Healthy Lifestyle Changes” handout

Homework
Ask participants to read the following scripture passages to prepare for the next session:

Philippians 4:13
2 Pet. 1:3, NIV
Luke 10:19
2 Corinthians 12:9
John 15:1
John 14:9-11
Isaiah 23:3
Lesson Outline

1) God has commanded us “do not murder, do not commit adultery, do not steal, do not give false testimony, honor your father and mother, and love your neighbor as yourself.” (Matt 19:18-19).

2) What do you need in order to be successful in weight loss?
   a) In order to be successful in making healthy lifestyle changes we need to embrace the powerful secret of loving ourselves.
   b) As Christians it is impossible to fulfill Christ’s command to love our neighbor as ourselves in the absence of godly self love (self love is agape love – loving by choice – unconditional love).

3) What kind of lifestyle changes do you want to make in order to live a healthier life?
   a) Success in weight loss requires lifestyle changes – changes that are always beneficial but quite often dramatic and difficult. Change is not easy – just thinking about breaking old habits, even bad habits, can generate anxiety. The motivation that we need to implement these changes and the determination needed to stick with them will require an unconditional love for yourself, the one who stands to benefit from the change.

4) What role do you think self love plays in being healthy? What about your spirituality?
   a) It is the work of the Holy Spirit to empower us to love ourselves properly and to do what is best for our body (eat right and exercise), contrary to what our feelings may dictate.

5) Do you have an obligation to God to maintain your temple?
   a) In Christ, we are the living temples of God. Self-love requires that we honor and respect the living temple. Many Christians are falling short in the area of temple maintenance. As we grow in our love for God, we will desire to nurture His dwelling place, our bodies.

6) Not everything that is edible should find access to our living temples.

7) For those of us with type 2 diabetes, high cholesterol and hypertension, can we control our disease through diet modification?
   a) There are certain diseases like type 2 diabetes, high cholesterol and hypertension, for which diet modification is the first line of therapy. Medications are considered second-line therapy – they don’t replace the need to modify your diet, but are used when diet alone is ineffective. Many people with these conditions are able to control them without medication by simply adhering to the prescribed diet that is proper for maintaining health.

8) But an alarming number choose to disregard these dietary recommendations. Foods that should be eaten on rare occasions become part of their regular eating habits. Because they fail to abide by the principle of restricting their temple, they suffer the consequences of their disease, consequences that are always serious and sometimes life-threatening.

9) One of the benefits of (agape) self love is that it motivates us to set restrictions on the types of foods we eat and learn to control the amount we consume. Food should edify and fortify our bodies, not destroy them.

Group Activity

_Leader:_ Read the following paragraph and character summaries to the group. Then ask participants who were assigned character roles last week to read their scripts to the group.

Sister Shirley has started a health ministry at her church. Her greatest challenge is getting her participants to practice honoring God by taking better care of their bodies. Sister Shirley decided to write a script and enlist the sisters in her ministry to act out Temple Maintenance.

Character Summaries:
Sister Jacqueline doesn’t have time in her schedule to engage in any physical activity. She believes that she can’t give up her favorite down home foods, if she exercises she’ll sweat out her hair and her family would go crazy if she started cooking that “healthy” stuff.

Sister Louise has tried every diet in the supermarket tabloid and is recommending that the ministry members try some of the quick weight loss fad diets that are guaranteed to work without the “pain” of sacrifice.

Sister Dorothy has made several steps to honor God with her body. She started with discipline, moderation and self control around diet and exercise. Her main desire is to improve her health. She is definitely on the right track.

_Leader:_ Ask one participant to read from the “Spiritual Insight for Making Healthy Lifestyle Changes” handout.

Homework for Week 11

The next spiritual theme is Using God’s Strength to Live a Healthier Life. Please read the following scripture passages to prepare for this session:

- Philippians 4:13
- 2 Pet. 1:3, NIV
- Luke 10:19
- 2 Corinthians 12:9
- John 15:1
- John 14:9-11
- Isaiah 23:3
Spiritual Insight for Making Healthy Lifestyle Changes

Matthew 19:18-19:
“Which ones?” the man asked. And Jesus replied “Do not murder. Do not commit adultery. Do not steal. Do not testify falsely. Honor your father and mother. Love your neighbor as yourself.”

Cultivating love for yourself is the first Spiritual secret to becoming successful in the healthy lifestyle/weight loss process.

The truth of the matter is that lifestyle change does not come easy. So how do we become motivated and where do we find the power to implement such dramatic changes? If the Spirit of God is in us, we have the motivating force, the power source, with us all the time. Scripture teaches us that “God has poured out his love into our hearts by the Holy Spirit.” (Romans 5:5) The fruit of the Spirit of love—agape—love will help us, first by adjusting our attitude about our bodies. We are not merely bones and flesh, but we are the living temple of God, and as such, we are of great value to God.

Once we embrace the wonderful truth that we are God’s living temple, the fruit of the Spirit of love empowers us to make whatever sacrifices are required to keep our temples healthy. We have to be willing to forgo something we might enjoy (whether meat, sweets, or an extra half-hour of sleep) for a higher purpose of good health. We will find the strength we need as we open our hearts to this spiritual secret—the power of love. As we grow in the fruit of the spirit of love, sacrifice becomes easier because our deepest desire will be to love and please God.

Fine, Fit and Fabulous
Week 11 Lesson Plan

USING GOD’S STRENGTH TO LIVE A HEALTHIER LIFE
Trading in “fat and happy” for “fit and healthy”

“I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me” (Philippians 4:13)

Subject
Participants will discuss the many ways that God can help them make changes in their lives. This session includes tips for how to use God’s strength to stay healthy in the future.

Goals
The goal of this last session is to provide participants with motivation for continuing to take care of their bodies by making nutrition and fitness changes.

Objectives
- Participants will develop strategies for staying healthy after the completion of the program
- Participants will identify ways to use God’s strength to stay on track with fitness goals

Teaching Method
The information will be presented to participants through an open discussion format.

Training Aids
Participants will receive written educational material as needed. Suggestions include:
- Distribute blank “My Covenant” handout

Homework
Plans for week 12 should be finalized. Assign homework as appropriate.

Lesson Outline:
1) What does it mean to rely on the power of God for victory in making lifestyle changes?

   Permanent lifestyle changes only happen when there is a willingness to embrace sacrifice as a vital part of loving God and loving yourself.

2) Does repentance give us power to develop more self-control in making lifestyle changes?

3) Does tapping into the power of God and totally depending on Him mean that you can eliminate the need for discipline, perseverance, and hard work when making lifestyle changes?
4) Changing our behavior to improve our health is a positive choice, even though it involves sacrifice.
   - We need to overcome the tendency to view sacrifice in a negative light. Sacrifice is a manifestation of love, and our attitude toward a healthful lifestyle should reflect that love.
   - We must be willing to give up a few things we enjoy for the greater purpose of God’s health.

5) When a diet fails or you regain weight, how can your belief in God help you to deal with disappointment and discouragement and get back on track (Eph. 3:20)?
   - Changing a behavior is not easy. Yes, we can do all things through Christ, but we must never forget it is the Lord who gives us strength. The likelihood for long term success through sheer determination alone is not very high, but we must humble ourselves and receive power through the Holy Spirit. Then we can walk in victory.
   - The Bible tells us that the Holy Spirit has given us “everything we need for life and godliness” (2 Pet. 1:3, NIV). He has equipped us to live soberly and to practice self discipline and moderation in our lives.

6) What would you expect God to do if you were praying for Him to help you with a craving for sweets or difficulty engaging in regular physical activity?
   - God did not give us the “authority to trample on snakes and scorpions” (Luke 10:19) only to render us powerless in resisting a second serving of sweet potato pie. If, however, we want access to this level of strength we must first recognize the source. Then we, like the apostle Paul, can experience God’s power “made perfect in weakness” (2 Cor. 12:9) and receive the strength we need to change our lifestyles and improve our health.

7) Tips for using God’s strength to help you live a healthier life:
   a) Cultivating love for yourself is the first secret to becoming successful in the process of making healthy lifestyle changes. Self love requires that we honor and respect the living temple.
   b) Choose joy. True joy can lift us out of the depths of depression and give us the power and the inspiration we need to make healthier lifestyle choices. Choose joy, stay connected. (John 15:1, 14:9-11) As we realize who God is we will shout for joy. Exalt Him in praise and worship. The depth and magnitude of our appreciation of God depends on how fully we understand the wonder of who God is and His love toward us.
   c) Choose peace, not pseudopeace. Pseudopeace is a false sense of peace. It is derived through using substances that seem to help us to cope. Food oftentimes becomes psychologically addictive. We depend on food to help us to cope with the ups and downs of life. When we draw closer to God, he fills us with His peace. Scripture declares “you will keep in perfect peace him whose mind is steadfast, because he trusts in you” (Isa. 23:3). As we become filled with God’s peace, we will find that we do not need to resort to food to “help” our stress levels.

d) Be patient. One of the most difficult things to accept when it comes to lifestyle changes is the need to wait patiently. We want to lose forty pounds in six weeks on a fad diet or liquid diet. It took over a decade to accumulate the weight, but you want it all gone in a month or two.

When we become impatient (as we are prone to do), we set ourselves up for failure and disappointment. Patience is required because lifestyle change is a slow process. It requires patience to continue with an exercise program and adhere to a healthy diet when the results we want will not be evident for weeks, maybe even months. And it takes patience to guard against the ever-present temptation of the fad diet or “quick fix” weight loss plan.

Patience is a process. God has a lesson for us to learn during this process while we struggle with deliverance. The lesson is simple: we can’t do it on our own. Just when we think we have a handle on those obsessive thoughts about food, something will predictably happen that causes us to slip right back into the pit. We find that after vowing to never again buy chocolate, we eat a whole box in one sitting or after swearing to eat fried chicken in moderation, we indulge three to four times per week. The lusts of the flesh will invariably prevail when we rely on our own strength.

God will not pull us out of the pit if we are convinced we can get out of our own mess on our own. But when we cry out to Him with a pure heart, when we come to Him broke and contrite acknowledging our weakness and admitting that in and of ourselves we are powerless, then He will show Himself faithful; pull us out of the pit and set us on solid ground.

e) The fruit of the spirit of kindness is that special fruit we demonstrate to others as “brotherly kindness.” Focusing on serving others gives us a wonderful perspective and helps us to handle our trials in a manner that is Christ-like. When kindness is richly manifested in us, it gives us the power to exchange our question of “why me, God?” for a humble “thank you, Lord.” The problem of being overweight or obese and not being able to stay with a fitness program gives us the propensity toward being self-centered. Showing kindness to others helps to protect us against this defeating self absorption.

You can spend your days being disappointed by your weight or you can grow in the knowledge of God’s grace, understanding that it is sufficient in any circumstance. The fruit of the spirit of kindness will help you make the right choice.

f) When we discuss the spiritual fruit of goodness, we want to consider the goodness of God to provide for us all the nourishment we need for health and well-being of body, mind and spirit. If we were asked to list the many ways that God manifests His love and mercy toward us, meeting our nutritional needs would be placed near the top.
As we express the spiritual fruit of goodness, we celebrate food as a blessing from God – a gift to us from Jehovah. Food should never assume a more significant role than what God intended. It is not an idol to be worshipped, a friend to the lonely, a stress-reducing agent or antidepressant. We turn to God, the source and supplier of the gift of food, and we worship Him – not his provisions. We seek His face is times of trouble. And we look to Him – not the refrigerator – when we are depressed or lonely. We keep the gift and the Giver separate and distinct, learning to give thanks to God for providing us with food to enjoy, never permitting that food to fulfill any need beyond which it was intended.

Old habits – especially those related to food – are hard to die. Even though old habits tend to stick with us, as Christians, we are called to follow the leading of the Holy Spirit and not live by any hard-to-break regimen. Every aspect of our lives, including what we eat and how we eat it should be grounded in godly wisdom. Godly wisdom requires that we restrict our diets to foods that generate health.

g) Faith (dealing with doubt) – “Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.” (Hebrews 11:1) Belief in God is only possible through faith. God is not someone we see with our natural eyes, but through faith we have solid evidence of His existence.

Many people believe that God exists, but they cannot be sure that He is able to help them make healthy life style changes. Instead of suppressing our doubt, we need to take it to the Lord. There we will be encouraged also that the Lord is able to get involved in our situation. Our faith reflects our belief in God and our knowledge that He is able to do “immeasurably more than all we ask or imagine.” (Eph. 3:20) We aren’t governed by our emotions, but by our faith.

h) Gentleness – The best approach to making lifestyle changes is the gentle approach. If you are consistent and patient with the gentle approach you can expect to see results. The first step in the “gentle” approach to weight loss is to set some reasonable goals and objectives. Your objectives should be twofold: to improve your health if you have weight related illnesses and to maintain your health (through disease prevention) if you do not have weight related illness. The gentle approach to weight loss is through diet and exercise, not magic pills or “quick fix” fad diets. The gentle approach is slow and steady – it will take a while but the results will be lasting, not fleeting. Your body and your health are worth the time it takes to do it right.

i) Self-control – “Like a city whose walls are broken down is a man who lacks self-control.” (Proverbs 25:28) Self-control is one of the most profound secrets to walking in liberty from bondages of all kinds, especially the bondages of being overweight or obese. The first step in maturing in the fruit of self-control is to accept responsibility and become accountable for your choices and actions. Simply put, it will be impossible for you to take control of a situation (i.e. your weight) if you believe that the situation is totally beyond your control.
I know that changing old habits is hard and I accept that I cannot do it through my own efforts, will power or good intentions.

Now that I have decided to be Fine, Fit and Fabulous, with God’s help I commit the rest of my life to breaking old unhealthy habits and implementing new permanent lifestyle changes.

I am not doing it because it is easy. I am doing it because the payoff is worth it.

I commit to changing what I eat, how much I eat, how often I eat, and the way I prepare my food. I commit to engaging in some level of physical activity at least three times per week.
